DISARM OR NO LOANS, MAY BE EDICT OF U. S.

Nation May Refuse to Lend to Countries Failing to Limit Navies

EXPECT BRITISH BACKING
Look for Joint Understanding to Curb Naval Growth of Other Powers

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1927 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington.—Shall the American people continue to lend money to foreign governments which fail to limit their naval armaments? This is the question which will confront the American government in the event that President Coolidge's proposal for a conference of naval powers is blocked by navalists in foreign countries.
President Coolidge is deeply in earnest in his plea for a reduction of naval armament and while the press dispatches from abroad indicate that Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy are willing to enter a parity for the purpose of discussion, there is a hint that reservations of such a nature may be made by some of the powers so as to make agreement impossible.

NO CHANCE IN POLICY
While no hint has come from government circles as yet it was pointed out here Monday that the United States government has not deviated at all from its loan policy which frowns on the lending of money for "unproductive purposes." Sums spent for military and naval purposes are not considered "productive" loans by the American government. Such a policy, however, cannot be made effective unless the principal lending powers agree and it would not be surprising if the United States, proposed to Great Britain that there be a joint understanding so that the naval ambitions of all powers may be curbed. Since the United States and Great Britain are willing to suspend further expansion of navies, the feeling is that the other powers should do likewise or run the risk of getting no financial support.

MRS. RUTH ORMISTON
IS GRANTED DIVORCE
Los Angeles.—(P)—The purpose of her journey here from Australia accomplished, Mrs. Ruth Peters Ormiston Tuesday laid plans for returning to her home in the Antipodes, after having been granted a divorce from Kenneth G. Ormiston, erstwhile Angelo temple radio operator and one of the principal characters in the Albee Temple case, custody of their 6-year-old son, was awarded to Mrs. Ormiston, who makes her home with her father,
a wealthy ice cream manufacturer.
Mrs. Ormiston was given her divorce on the grounds of desertion. Mrs. Ormiston was awarded $75 a month for the child's support until she reaches maturity. The suit was not contested.

PHOTOGRAPHERS OF VALLEY TO MEET HERE
A national advertising campaign will be discussed at a meeting of the Fox River Valley Photographer's association at the Harwood studio here
Thursday afternoon and evening. J. T.
Wessels of Indianapolis, will explain the campaign which is being conducted by photographers and manufacturers of photographic supplies.
The campaign was started in Chicago at the annual convention of the National Photographers' association according to E. H. Harwood, local photographer, who attended the meeting. It was planned to raise $200,000 for the campaign, one half to be given by the manufacturers and the other half by the members of the association.

Since that time, according to Mr.
Harwood, the plan has met with such favor that the amount has been raised to $2,000,000 of which $600,000 has been subscribed. Local photographers are to assist in the advertising campaign by tying up local advertising with the national copy.

HOUSE MAY VOTE SENATE FARM BILL TODAY

OVER THE HILLS FROM THE POORHOUSE SON TAKES HIS MOTHER

Darlington.—(P)—From the county poor house, where she has lived for nine years and expected to die, Mrs. Sarah Hussington 80 years old, was rescued by a son
she had not seen for half a century and believed dead.
The son, who learned of his mother's presence in the county home after long investigation, took the woman to his home in Chicago where she will spend the rest of her days, free from want.
The mother of three children,
Mrs. Hussington was deserted by her husband who left their home in Blanchardville, taking the son,
and leaving two other children.
Neither able to read nor write, the mother struggled against poverty.
Her two children died and at 71 years of age she went to "over the hill to the poor house," presumably with no relatives to care for her.
By devious means the son, believed dead, learned of his mother's whereabouts and Sunday night brought her to his Chicago home where she met her grandchildren and great grandchildren.

GREEN BAY COURT GETS MORE CASES IN CLEANUP DRIVE

Total of 84 Arrests Made Thus Far for Violation of Liquor Law

Green Bay.—(P)—The second episode of Green Bay's vice cleanup drive will open in municipal court Tuesday afternoon when more of the defendants named in the 108 warrants issued last Wednesday will be brought in.
Eighty-four arrests for violation of the liquor law has been the result of the vice campaign thus far. Three of the defendants have pleaded guilty to the charges and paid fines of $150
and costs each, while the remainder were bound over for preliminary hearing upon their plea of not guilty.

It was reported Monday on good authority that a local man, formerly engaged in police work, who is said to have aided the private operatives retained by Samuel Lavolette, Green Bay attorney and defeated candidate for district attorney, in securing evidence has left the city. His absence may have a material effect at the trials it has been stated.

The arrests so far have been for violation of the liquor law, but it was intimated at the sheriff's office Monday that some of those remaining charge solicitation for the purpose of prostitution, and these defendants are expected to appear Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday. It was definitely stated by Sheriff Joseph Francis Monday that the 108 warrants would cover everything, and reports that 200 or more warrants were still to be served were positively denied by him.

OLDEST RESIDENT OF DANE CO DIES AT 103

Stoughton.—(P)—Mrs. Anna Garen,
103, oldest resident of Dane co died Monday night at her home in the town of Pleasant Spring. Mrs. Garen, born Dec. 18, 1823 at Hal-lingdal, Norway, came to this country in 1848, lived first at Madison and Beloit. In 1853 she came to Pleasant Spring where she lived until her death. Mrs. Garen is survived by two children, six grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

MINERS OPPOSE WAGE REDUCTION, LEWIS SAYS

Miami, Fla.—(P)—The United Mine Workers of America have entered the wage conference here under instructions from the Indianapolis convention to obtain the best possible wage contract based on "no reduction in wages." John L. Lewis, president of the organization, told the joint conference of miners and operators of the central competitive bituminous field at the second day session Tuesday.

EXPECT FIGHT TO GAIN CITY IN NICARAGUA

Both Factions Await Reinforcements Before Battle for Matagalpa

Managua, Nicaragua.—(P)—Awaiting reinforcements, Liberal and Conservative armies were encamped Tuesday near Matagalpa, intent on battle for possession of the city, second in importance only to the capital, Managua.
General Moncada, leader of the Liberal forces, is anxious to gain Mat-agalpa, and to gain fight his way to Matagalpa, stronghold of the Conservative president, Adolfo Diaz. As Conservatives desire to prevent this at any cost, fighting more severe than any yet seen in warfare between the two factions is expected.
Believing the Liberals outnumbered them, the Conservative garrison at Matagalpa, evacuated the city Monday, to encamp to the west and await arrival of additional forces from Managua.

STAGE DEMONSTRATION

As soon as the Conservatives had left, Liberal adherents in Matagalpa staged a demonstration, in which rifles and revolvers were much in evidence. For some time there was wild disorder, in the course of which an automobile flying the American flag and with the American charge, Lawrence Dennis, and three newspaper correspondents as passengers, was fired on. One shot lodged in the upholstery, but no one was wounded. Those in the automobile, besides Mr. Dennis, were Linton Wells of New York, Gerald Martin of Chicago, and M. E. Alexander, the Associated Press correspondent.
In the disturbance which followed departure of the Conservatives from Matagalpa, the Liberals raved about the streets killing their suns indiscrimi-nately. They killed the jailer of the prison and released 150 prisoners who joined the revolt.

U. S. TRANSPORT SAILS

Washington.—(P)—Coinciding with a discussion in Nicaragua Tuesday between Rear Admiral Latimer, the American commander, and Juan Sa-caca, Nicaraguan Liberal leader, the navy department ordered the transport Henderson to sail Wednesday from Philadelphia, enroute to Guan-tamo, with 800 bluejackets for the scouting fleet.
Further disposition of the transport will depend upon developments in Nicaragua, but it was evident the government was prepared to take necessary steps to protect American interests regardless of the outcome of the Latimer-Sacaca discussion which was initiated in an effort to find a peaceful solution of the Nicaraguan strife.

SUFFER HUGE LOSS IN BALKAN QUAKE

Estimate 600 Killed—Twelve Killed at Scene of Archduke's Murder

Vinenna.—(P)—A dispatch from Belgrade to the Graetz Tagespost says that the casualties of the earthquake which rocked Bosnia, Herzegovina and Dalmatia are estimated at 600 persons. These figures for the dead and injured could not be confirmed.

Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia.—(P)—Earthquake shocks in the Herzegovina, Dalmatia and Bosnia sections of the Balkans, have caused enormous damage.
While the exact number of lives lost was uncertain Tuesday, owing to a break in telegraphic and telephone service, it was believed there had been many deaths. If the preliminary reports filtering into Belgrade are borne out it is possible that the dead may total hundreds. Relief trains despatched by the Jugo-Slav government were held up by breaks in the lines, rails being totally ripped up in many places.
Twelve persons are known to have lost their lives in Sarajevo when tons of snow and ice, loosened by earth tremors, crashed into ten buildings.
Sarajevo, about 120 miles southwest of Belgrade, was the scene June 23, 1914, of the assassination of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, Austria's heir and his consort, the duchess of Hohenberg.
The assassin was a Serbian and the deed led to Austria Hungary's declaration of war on Serbia and the conflict that developed into the world war. The earth tremors began about dawn Monday.

A mountain slide in the Babarskopolje region caused by the quakes, buried several houses, but the exact number of victims is not known.

Augusta, Me.—(P)—This year's session of the Governors' conference will land, Mich. Governor Ralph O. Brewster, chairman of the executive committee of the conference announced

Bloom And Blanton Mix In Fight At U. S. Capitol

FORMER KAISER NOT PLANNING RETURN TO BERLIN, HE CLAIMS

New York.—(P)—Wilhelm Hoenzollern, in a cablegram to George Sylvester Viereck, New York writer, denies he is considering returning to his Berlin palace.
Viereck cabled the former emperor that European dispatches recently said he was planning to return to the Berlin palace, which remains his property.
The reply was: "News of contemplated return to Berlin untrue.
Nothing new at D-rm. By order of his majesty, the emperor and king, Admiral Rebeur."

CALL MASSMEETING ON SHOE FACTORY

Want to Know if Citizens
Think They Should Pay
$75,000 for Plant

Citizens of Appleton will be asked to decide whether it would be wise to spend approximately $75,000 to bring the M. T. Shaw, Inc., Racine shoe factory, to Appleton. The question will be decided at a mass meeting at the city hall at 7:30 Thursday evening. If the citizens decide that they want to pay the $75,000 they will be asked for suggestions on how the money can be raised.
Mr. Shaw, president of the Racine firm, Appleton last Saturday attended a conference with the industrial committee of the common wealth. At that time he definitely stated that the firm required $25,000 moving expense from Racine to Appleton and a factory. A suitable factory would cost approximately $50-$60,000, according to Mayor C. C. Tule.
A recent report given by a special citizen's committee, which had investigated the Racine organization, recommended an expenditure not to exceed $50,000 to bring the plant here.

DAUGHERTY'S BROTHER TAKES WITNESS STAND

New York.—(P)—Mal S. Daugherty, president of the Midland National bank of Washington, Court House, Ohio took the stand Tuesday
as one of the government's star witnesses against his brother Harry M.
Daugherty, former attorney general.
He told how Harry Daugherty had destroyed records of the Midland bank, which the government asserts would have proven the former government official a grafter who sold the loyalty he had sworn to observe in his oath of office.
Harry Daugherty and Thomas W.
Miller are charged with releasing
$7,000,000 war impounded property for a bribe, and the government alleges the missing papers would have been positive proof of Daugherty's guilt.

BOY KILLER IS TAKEN INTO CUSTODY IN EAST

New York.—(P)—Michael Ponkra-sow, 12, was in the custody of the Children's society Tuesday—a killer
after a three day runaway adventure.
Hungry and afraid to go home, he said, the boy Monday night held up and shot Marcus Gold, 42, in his leathergoods shop at Richmond Hill.
"I didn't mean to shoot the man,"
he told police after he was found in the wash room in the rear of the store.
"I was awful hungry and only wanted to get enough money to buy something to eat."
Police said the boy stopped at the home of a chum Saturday night and slept in a warehouse Sunday night. He forced schoolmates to hand over their lunches to him when they were halted
on their way to school Monday.

DRY SLEUTHS SAY SYRUP SHIPMENT IS WHISKY

Chicago.—(P)—A "simple syrup" to a candy firm in Superior proved to be the real thing Tuesday. The 192 bottles of whiskey beneath the syrup labels. The consignment bore the name of a Chicago firm and was directed to the "W. J. Smith Candy Co." at Superior.

Georgia Brothers Face Peonage, Murder Charges

Monticello, Ga.—(P)—Hulon and Marvin Williams, sought for more than five years on charges of murder and peonage in connection with a federal investigation of conditions on the Williams farm in 1921, were in jail
Tuesday.
The two brothers surrendered to authorities Monday. Another brother, Leroy, is under bond awaiting trial in the case, and their father, J. S. Williams, is serving a life term in the penitentiary.
The Williams case came into public notice after department of justice visited the Jasper co. farm in the spring of 1921. Government investigators at that time charged that more than 20 Negroes on the farm had been killed
from time to time and their bodies buried or thrown into Yellow river which flows near the farm. When officers discovered eleven bodies in shallow graves on the farm, Williams and his

MELLON NOTE ON RELIEF FEE CAUSES DELAY

House Passes Appropriation Bill to Fight European Corn Bore

BULLETIN
Washington, D. C.—(P)—The senate
Tuesday invoked its drastic cloture
rule to cut short debate on the Mc-Fadden Branch banking bill conference report.
This forecasts final legislation action on the bill not later than Wednesday.
Insurgents had planned a filibuster
on the measure in the hope of deferring action until President Coolidge had approved or vetoed the McNary-Haugen farm bill.

Washington, D. C.—(P)—Continuing an intensive fight, house farm leaders were hopeful Tuesday that before night the point would be reached where a vote would be in order to substitute the McNary-Haugen bill, as passed by the senate, for the McNary measure which has nearly a week has been debated in the house.
Taking up the question of substituting the senate bill soon after convening, the house agreed that there should be four hours debate.
A letter by Secretary Mellon, setting forth difficulties foreseen by the treasury department in carrying out the equalization fee provision of the bill, came in for discussion early at the capitol, and leaders freely admitted that whether a vote on substitution was reached Tuesday or carried over until Wednesday depended largely on the time consumed in discussing this communication. Both supporters and opponents will look to the vote on substitution as furnishing some light on the strength of the bill.

ONE KILLED, SEVERAL HURT IN TEXAS BLAST

Nearly All Windows at Borger
Shattered When Explosive Is Set Off

Borger, Texas.—(P)—One man was killed several persons, were injured and virtually every window in Borger buildings broken, when 15 tons of nitro-glycerin exploded Monday night in a magazine two miles west of here.
A brilliant flash and terrific concussion was followed by a hail of rockets and a two mile radius that caused all the casualties. No one was known to have been near the magazine.
Melvin Norris, 37, a driller of Uncas, Okla., working on a derrick on Main-st. here, was killed when a rock struck his head. Others were cut and bruised by fragments of rock and flying glass.
A survey Tuesday showed all the larger plate glass windows here were broken. Walls of numerous structures were cracked. The blast was reported to have formed a crater 200 feet deep and to have torn off the side of a nearby hill. Officials of the Thompson Hardware Co., which owned the magazine could give no explanation.

BRITONS AWAIT WORD ON AFFAIRS IN CHINA

London.—(P)—With no official dispatches from China in the last 36 hours, the British government Tuesday was anxiously awaiting news of the fate of the critical negotiations at Hankow. There was a tense moment in the house of commons Tuesday afternoon when Philip Snowden, Labor, asked Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain whether the negotiations between the Cantonese foreign minister, Eugene Chen the British charge d'affaires had broken down as stated in the press. "Up to the present moment, I have received no information," answered the foreign secretary gravely.

DOUBLE MURDER IN OHIO PUZZLES COPS

Husband Finds Wife and Child Clubbed to Death—Valuables Untouched

Conneaut, O.—(P)—Authorities
Tuesday were puzzled by the slaying of Mrs. Fred Brown and her 4-year-old son. The two were clubbed to death in their home by Brown when he returned from work Monday night.
Money and other valuables in the house were untouched. Brown said he had no enemies who might seek revenge.
The woman's body, with her clothing torn to shreds, was in a sleeping porch. The boy's body was in the basement. Walls of the house were spattered with blood and a blood-stained baseball bat was in a wastepaper basket.
Officials considered the theory that the slaying might have been the act of a crazed person. Evidence of a terrific struggle was found.

FAIL TO IDENTIFY MAN MURDERED AT KENOSHA

Kenosha.—(P)—With no one offering to identify the man whose murdered body was frozen in a culvert under the Northwestern tracks west of here Saturday afternoon, officials are ready to close the case. No clues to any theory for the killing have been uncovered, although a man reported that he saw a blood-soaked cap lying at the side of the road near the scene of the murder two weeks ago. The cap could not be found Monday.
The man, apparently a Mexican,
was stabbed five times in heart and his skull was fractured over the left eye. He appeared to be about 30 years of age, weighed 130 pounds and was 5 feet 11 inches tall.

SHOOT TO KILL, IS MAXIM OF TWO BOY MURDERERS OF COP

Chicago.—(P)—A "shoot first, ask questions later" maxim was the guiding principle, confessed by two teenage youths here Tuesday on their own stories of a week of banditry, climaxed by the slaying of a policeman.
An 18-year-old companion dined
the admonition in their ears
every time they staged a holdup, the boys said, so they shot and killed Patrolman Joseph Benner, off duty and in plain clothes, at first sign of resistance. On one other occasion they shot a holdup victim, William J. Gall, 19, and Victor Valinsky, 18, admitted.
The youths were thrown into police hands by a collision in which their stolen automobile was wrecked. The two named Fred Crick Rose, 18, and the 18-year-old "master mind," of their operations. Rose admitted part in the holdups, but denied having helped kill the patrolman or having given orders for firing on others of a score of victims.

FRANCE READY TO ANSWER COOLIDGE ON DISARMAMENT

Expect Reply to Point to Action Already Taken by League of Nations

Paris.—(P)—France's reply to the naval disarmament proposals of President Coolidge, as drafted by Foreign Minister Briand, was unanimously approved at a cabinet meeting Tuesday. It will be forwarded to Washington immediately and will be made public Wednesday morning.
As forecast in these dispatches, the reply, it was indicated, will be in relation to all nations, as distinguished from the group of nations mentioned by Mr. Coolidge. France, it will say, has no desire to take the question out of the league's hands.
In drafting the reply M. Briand took great pains to make it appear as little as possible like a flat rejection, at the same time making it clear that France adheres positively for the moment to the league preparatory commission's scheme which links naval with land disarmament.
It is understood the note leaves the door open for the Washington government to make suggestions concerning the continued efforts of the preparatory commission, which is working under league auspices with the collaboration of American delegates.

BISHOP SAYS SUICIDES DUE TO GODLESSNESS

Madison.—(P)—Lack of motive in life and a firm belief in religion of any sort are the causes for the student suicides occurring from time to time in various parts of the country,
the Rt. Rev. Reginald H. Weller, Episcopalian bishop of the Fond du Lac diocese in charge of the "bishop" crusade held here during the last few days, said Monday night.
Behind this lack of motive lie "utterly Godless parents, an utterly Godless philosophy and education, taught by utterly Godless professors in an utterly Godless way," the church leader said. He condemned the psychology and philosophy taught in the universities and colleges Monday and said "it is making our young men morbid, filled them with tragic thoughts. It seems to me that if our university professors believe the things they teach, they would all go out and shoot themselves."

AMERICAN SHIP SAVES JAPANESE FISHERMEN

Aboard S. S. Wilson.—(P)—The American steamer Mobile City rescued 15 Japanese fishermen Tuesday night from their disabled schooner.
The rescue was made during a severe storm, 1,125 miles east of Yokohama.
The Mobile City was bound to Los Angeles from Yokohama when she sighted signals of distress from the schooner which was rolling in a heavy sea. The Japanese were taken aboard the Mobile City, which continued her voyage toward Los Angeles.

BRITON BLAMES U. S. FOR PLIGHT OF EUROPE

Madison.—(P)—The United States is driving Europe to bankruptcy, Sir George Paish, English economist and financier, declared Monday night at the University of Wisconsin. Attacking the tariff, the English financier said the "logical outcome" would be international bankruptcy, largely due to this country. "Prosperity has already left Europe now it is leaving you and the end is not far distant."

SENATE RUSHES BILLS

Push Measures to Get in Before Deadline at Midnight Wednesday

Madison.—(AP)—Governor
Fred R. Zimmerman Tuesday announced that he had requested and received the resignation of George Meggers, Waupaca, co, as state treasury agent. Simultaneously with the announcement came the statement that Emil Pladsen, Madison, had been named to the place.
Introduction of a large number of bills, which senators seek to get in before the deadline of midnight Wednesday night, slight debate on the bill of Senator Teasdale of Sparta, prohibiting the use of automobiles for immoral purposes and concurrence in the assembly-originated joint resolution, calling upon congress to hurry approval of the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway were the major actions of the state senate Tuesday. The assembly met later in the day.

MEASURE ELASTIC

The debate on the Teasdale measure which would allow confiscation of automobiles used in illegal transportation of women, centered around the alleged elasticity of the measure. It was brought out that loaned automobiles might thereby be taken from their owners when they were not the offenders and questions as to who might retain the car and how its confiscation would affect the fine of the offender were raised. It was finally referred to committee for amendment.
Several other measures were ordered engrossed and made ready for final debate.

11 STUDENT SUICIDES SINCE FIRST OF YEAR

New York.—(P)—Three young men students died by their own hands in different parts of the country Monday and the suicide toll of youthful lives since the first of the year rose to 11.
Of those who met death Monday,
one gave no reason for his act, one noted "he did will be a glorious adventure," and the third, "I am doing the deed that will, after my funeral, lighten the family's expense."

CALL SPECIAL MEETING OF SCHOOL DISTRICT

A special meeting of district No. 10
Grand Chute will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the school. The meeting has been called for the purpose of discussing plans to dispose of the old school building. After the business meeting a program will be given by the school children.

Opportunity's Knock Confidence

Luck is waiting to lend a hand to the man who believes in himself. Fate helps those who help themselves by casting out doubts.
Self-confidence delivers a man from his fears. Courage overcomes weakness. Strength works its way to fulfillment.
Hesitation and doubt are signs of a lack of wisdom. They flutter about the man who doesn't know, and confuse all his actions. They are the birds of ill omen that beset the careers of the uncertain.

MARY LOU AND HER COMPANY PLEASURES BIG CROWD IN THEATRE

Entertaining Plot Is Tunes-fully Presented by Appleton Cast

You must meet "Mary Lou." Everybody who saw her Monday night at Fischers Appleton theatre liked her, and you'll like her too. "Mary Lou," a musical comedy, sponsored by the 150th Field Artillery band, scored a first-night "hit" Monday evening before a well-filled house. It's clever and humorous, and you'll see a girl chorus that is pretty and that can sing and dance. It will be presented again Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Amateur actors make up the cast.

Mary Lou Montrose is an attractive young widow who almost causes the downfall of poor old Leander Lamb, hen-pecked husband of Mary Ann Lamb. Mary Ann's sole purposes in life are securing funds for her needy nurses' association, and finding fault with her husband. His day of reckoning finally comes, however, when Leander becomes a domineering master as Mary Ann becomes a "yes dear" wife.

The Lams have a niece, Phyllis Atwood, who is in love with Allen Townsend, an artist, but of course Mrs. Lamb has selected someone else, Clyde Wethersbee, her devout and "precise" secretary, for Phyllis' husband. Townsend is unsuccessful in his early attempts to secure Mr. Lamb's approval of his marriage to Phyllis, but when Leander finally learns that his place is at the head of the household, he consents to the marriage on behalf of himself and his wife.

But before all these peaceful arrangements are reached, Leander becomes imbued with a youthful spirit which leads him into an embarrassing situation with Mary Lou. Mary, who lives next door to Leander, enjoys swimming, and takes a daily dip in her private pool.

Her estate and that of the Lams is separated by an old stone wall with one or two holes in it, and it doesn't take Leander long to locate the holes and discover Mary Lou's love for swimming. He thinks he falls in love with the widow, but a secret meeting with her in the studio of Allen's fails to prove a mutual attraction, and their clandestine adventure is interrupted by the sudden appearance of Leander's wife.

Leander escapes temporarily from the embarrassing situation by assuming the role of a somnambulist, but his deception fails to protect him long from the penetrating eyes of his wife. Just when his predicament appears hopeless, an old friend of Leander's wife in the person of Bill Blackwell appears. He tells the story of the knife, and the master's role in the Lamb household changes hands.

Mrs. Lamb, that exact, upright woman has a past, as Bill Blackwell proves. She allowed a man to kiss her two or three times one night about 25 years before, and Bill was the man.

The turning point in the story is reached at last. Leander—niece, wife, fearing Leander—suddenly throws out his chest, takes a few deep breaths, and starts to do a little boxing of his own.

The story of the knife—but perhaps we shouldn't tell you everything before you see "Mary Lou."

The role of Mary Lou Montrose was ably filled by Viola Foster. She has an unusually pretty voice, and she is given a number of opportunities to display it.

Leander, whom you will pity and laugh at at the same time, is portrayed by J. F. Bannister. When he forgets his age and commences to cut up—but you must see him to appreciate him.

No wife could be more exacting with her husband than was Mrs. Berry, the Barrys Mary Ann Lamb. The way she rules her husband is a fright, but she can be as correspondingly meek.

Sylvester Nightingale, a negro servant played by G. L. Chamberlin, can scarcely drag one foot after the other, but in spite of this handicap he ran dance when occasion demands.

Myrtle Luciers is the winsome niece, Phyllis Atwood, and Martin J. Van Veen displays a pleasing voice in his role as Allen Townsend, the artist. Rodney Kox is the precise Clyde Wethersbee.

EDISON USES MAIN GATE TO LABORATORY GROUNDS ON NATAL DAY

Thomas Alva Edison consented to little deviation from his usual daily routine upon his 80th birthday anniversary. A visit from his old friend, Henry Ford, and his annual meeting with news reporters and photographers were the outstanding events of the day. Here (left) we see the inventive "Wizard of Menlo Park" arriving at the laboratory with Ford from the Edison home. The trip was made in the stock Ford touring car which Ford gave Edison and was marked by the ceremony of entering the laboratory grounds through the main gate, which is opened for Edison to pass only on his anniversaries. (During the remainder of the year he is driven in through a rear gate. Ford isn't kissing his aged but still vigorous chum in the picture above; he's telling him something in the only manner Edison's life-long deafness will permit him to hear. An extraordinary likeness is the portrait below.

Quick Quaker "stands by" you through the morning

That's why doctors urge it to start every day

TO feel right through the morning you must have well-balanced, complete food at breakfast. At most other meals—that is, at luncheon and at dinner—you usually get that kind of food but rarely at breakfast.

Thus Quick Quaker, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 65% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "built" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Food that should start every breakfast you eat.

Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers. Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 2 1/2 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

SCHUMANN-HEINK SAYS CIGARET AD IS HOAX

Atlanta—Newspaper advertisements of a brand of cigarettes picturing Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink as using them regularly, have so distressed the singer that she has placed the matter in the hands of an attorney.

She has received letters from friends throughout the country and from many persons whom she did not know, enclosing clippings of the advertisement and commenting on her use of the weed.

"I never smoked a cigarette in my life, and although I don't condemn women who do, neither do I approve them," she exclaimed. "Why, even my sons are not permitted to smoke in my presence on the days I sing." She declared she had been made the victim of a hoax when her signature, reproduced at the bottom of the advertisement, was obtained.

Feet Are as Varied as Faces

No. 2
This is one of a series of twenty illustrated advertisements explaining the difference between the many types of feet, and suggesting the proper footwear for each.

Too narrow a shoe, too short a shoe, laced too tight around instep and ankle, an improper last for the foot (that is, a straight last on a crooked foot, or a swing last on a straight foot) are some of the causes of retarded circulation which in turn produces numbness and cold feet.

This trouble is avoided when the shoe fits so that the foot may have perfect freedom of motion in the shoe. It is this freedom of motion that permits circulation.

Novelty salespeople have studied feet; they know feet; they know how to fit shoes so that you may enjoy complete foot comfort and resulting better general health.

The Veins of The Foot
Poor circulation of blood through the veins of the foot is often caused by improper fitting shoes, and may be said to be the direct cause of cold feet.

THEATRE SEEKS ESSAYS ON BLONDES, BRUNETTES

Are you a gentleman who prefers blondes or brunettes is the question Fischer's Appleton theatre has asked. For the best letter telling why you prefer the blonde or brunette a cash prize of $10 will be awarded. To the next best there will be $5 for the next five, $1; and a ticket to the photoplay, "Blonde or Brunette" for the 50 best letters received. The picture will be shown at the theatre for four days starting Monday, and will feature Adolph Menjou.

Whether your philosophy of light or dark coloring is serious or amusing, your letter will be entered in the contest and will be judged with the others who may take blondes or brunettes or both as good jokes or as dangerous propositions. Men, women and children may enter the contest, and their subjects may be of either, neither or both sexes.

Judges for the competition have not been announced. Letters, in ink typewritten, accompanied by a stamped addressed envelope must be received before 9 o'clock Friday evening Feb. 18 at Fischer's theatre. Winners in the contest will be announced Saturday night.

ELECTRICIANS LOOK FOR WIRING DEFECTS

Several electricians from the Langstad-Meyer Electric company are investigating the underground wiring of the ornamental street lighting system, for defects, according to R. F. Hackworth, street commissioner. Some trouble has been experienced with the street lights in various parts of the city during the last two weeks, and an effort is being made to locate the defects.

MASON-ST VIADUCT REMODELING WOULD REQUIRE $34,000

Project Probably Will Not Be Carried Out for Several Years

Remodeling of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad viaduct over S. Mason-st would cost approximately $34,000 according to an estimate furnished to the city by J. A. Dyer of Green Bay, division engineer for the railroad. The estimate was made from figures supplied to Mr. Dyer by R. M. Connelly, city engineer.

It was proposed to change the viaduct to allow the removal of the center pier which now divides the street beneath the bridge, at a recent meeting of the board of public works and railroad officials. Mason-st is to be paved in spring.

It was pointed out that if the pier was removed the entire viaduct would have to be remodeled. When the viaduct was constructed the city agreed to forever maintain it, it was pointed out. This meant that any repairs would have to be paid for by the city.

The city did not have sufficient funds to pay for the paving and the improvement of the viaduct in the 1927 program and therefore it was thought for a time that the paving projects would have to be abandoned for a year. Mr. Connelly prepared plans which would permit the street car tracks to be placed in the center of the street, passing by the east side of the dividing pier instead of at the west as at present, and these plans were adopted by the council.

Property owners on S. Mason-st. had petitioned the common council to have the street car tracks placed in the center of the street when it was paved. They contended that as the tracks were now on the west side of the street the residents on that side were unable to use park space in front of their homes.

It is probable that it will be several years before the city will attempt to remodel the viaduct, according to Mayor A. C. Rule.

OTHER BUSINESS OF COOPERATIVE FIRMS AMOUNTS TO $36,940

265 Cars of Livestock Shipped Out of Outagamie-co—Dale Co. Heads List

BY ROBERT AMUNDSON
In 1926 the eight cooperative shipping associations of Outagamie-co shipped livestock valued at $380,000. The biggest volume of this business was done by the Dale Shipping company, Dale, which handled 68 carloads, valued at $103,336.62.
In all 265 carloads of livestock were shipped out of the county cooperatively these 128 cars went to Chicago and the rest to Milwaukee. Most of these cars were handled on the terminal markets of farmers' commission firm. In addition to the livestock, these associations handled twine, feed, fertilizers and coal, valued at $36,940.18.
Most of the shipping associations were started by the American Society of Equity ten or more years ago. Some of them are still associated with the state union. All but two of the associations belong to the Equity Livestock Sales association of Milwaukee, where most of the stock is shipped.

ASSOCIATIONS AND OFFICERS

The name of shipping association in the county, the names of the officers of each association and the location of each association are given below:
The Drexel Cooperative Livestock Shipping association is composed of the Drexel local and the North Cicero local. The officers of the Drexel local are: Walter Black, president; August Litzkow, secretary. The officers of the North Cicero local are: Fred Roepke, president; Charles Mueller, vice president; Emil Mueller, secretary-treasurer, and August Litzkow, shipping manager. These associations ship together and load at Drexel. To cover expenses, 1 per cent is charged on shipments. Both of these local are members of the state union of the American Society of Equity.

The office and shipping point of the Dale Shipping company is at Dale. Beside livestock, this company shipped 74 cars of chickens last fall. Two per cent was deducted from the cash received for shipments in 1926 but only 1 per cent will be deducted next year. The members are charged a fee of $1 each. In place of an annual meeting, the company has decided to hold monthly meetings. The officers of the company are: George Plotz, president; Joseph Scherke, secretary-treasurer, and John Leppla, shipping manager.
Of the Apple Creek-Mackville Badger Cooperative Shipping association, only the Apple Creek branch is holding regular meetings. No membership fee is charged but 2 per cent, deducted from the amount of each sale, paid all expenses. The officers of the association are: Albert Krueger, president; George Plotz, vice president; Harvey Schroeder, secretary, and Martin Reinke, treasurer. The shipping association managers are: Herman Abitz, Frank Luedtke and Henry Gull.

COMMON SENSE ASSOCIATION

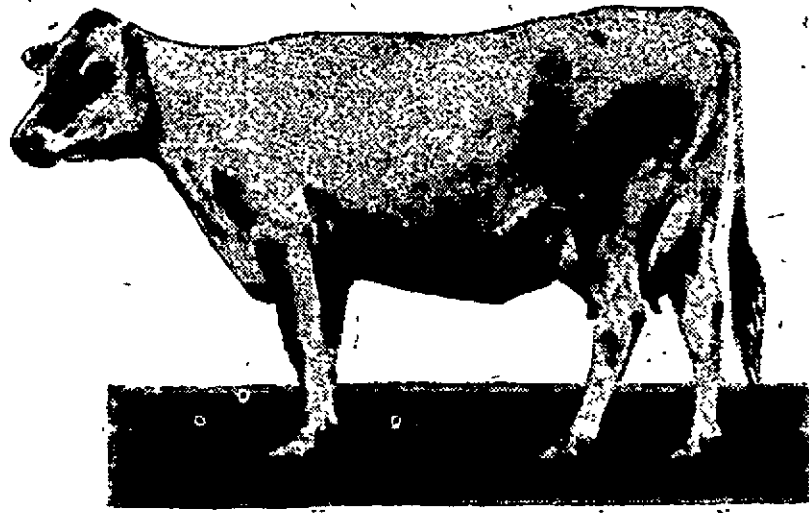

The shipping point of the Common Sense Livestock Shipping association is Greenville. In this association, members and non-members pay the same fees. The association deducts 1 1/2 per cent from the amount of sales. The local handled two cars of coal, 57,000 pounds of salt, 4,000 pounds of twine, one car of oil meal, 45 tons of bran and five cars of middlings. The officers are: George Schmidt, president; Frank Reimer, secretary-treasurer, and George Tennie, shipping manager. No membership fee is deducted.

The Black Creek Equity Cooperative association, doing business at Black Creek, works on a per cent collection basis until a surplus accumulates and then goes back to a collection of 1 per cent. All shippers pay a membership fee of $1. Last season, 8,000 pounds of twine were handled. The officers of the association are: Nicholas Roettley, president; C. J. Van Patten, vice president, and Elmer May, treasurer.
The Center Valley Cooperative Shipping association, with shipping point at Center Valley, deducts 1 per cent from sales for a sinking fund and this, with a $1 membership fee, paid the home expense of the association in 1926. The association handled 15,350 pounds of twine, two cars of salt, two cars of coal, 20 cars of feed, and a car of fertilizer. The officers of the association are: Fred Fiestad, president; Louis Nichols, vice president; Gus Schroeder, secretary-treasurer; George Wehling, shipping manager, and Henry Lilje, business manager.

SEYMOUR AND KAUKAUNA

The Seymour Cooperative Livestock Shipping association deducts 2 per cent for a sinking fund and out of the total all the home expenses are paid. Freight, yardage, etc., are divided equally on all carloads. In that way, light loads pay no more than heavy loads. The local equity has been reorganized and it is hoped that this movement will be a big help to

BADGER JERSEY CHAMPION

New York—Dolter's Daisy Lass, a cow in the herd of G. R. Reddal of Phillips, Wis., has completed a 305-day official production test in which she produced, with calf, 677.24 lbs. of butterfat and 12797 lbs. of milk as a senior four-year-old. This is the highest 305-day Jersey record ever made in Wisconsin. Lass has been awarded a gold and silver medal by the American Jersey Cattle club, New York.
The 305-day Jersey record for this state has been broken three times within a year by Lass, her dam and her granddam, all in Mr. Reddal's herd. The producing ability of these three generations of Jerseys is shown by the fact that their 305-day records average 615 lbs. of butterfat with two of the records made in three-year-old form.

Dobberstein Herd And Cow High In Ellington C. T. A.

Henry Dobberstein's herd of purebred and grade Holsteins made the best record for January in the Ellington-Outagamie-co Cow Testing association, according to the monthly report of Ervin Grosskopf, official tester. The herd averaged 550 pounds of milk, testing 3.52 per cent, and yielding 30.78 pounds of butterfat per animal. The herd of purebred and grade Guernseys owned by Arnold Spiegelberg was a close second, however, producing 558 pounds of milk with a percentage of 5.13, or 30.76 pounds of butterfat per animal.
Henry Dobberstein also owns the

CONSUMER GRADES MEAT

The consumer determines the grades and classes into which cattle are separated when they reach the market, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The consumer's selections of meat is used as a basis for classification.

Ventilation of corn cribs by natural means is the most practical method for farmers to adopt in guarding against spoiled corn in a backward season such as the present one, says E. W. Lehmann, of the Illinois College of Agriculture.

CANADIAN EXPORTS TO U. S. SHOW GAIN

Dairy Products Register Large Increase — Lenroot Bill May Reduce Amount

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington, D. C.—The department of commerce Tuesday made public some figures on dairy exports to Canada in 1926. The United States was the principal customer and the exports to this country are expected to be cut down as a result of the bill by Senator Lenroot, Wisconsin, just passed by both houses of congress.
According to a report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Canada, transmitted to the department of commerce by Trade Commissioner Lynn W. Meekins, exports of cream from Canada increased from 4,007,487 gallons valued at $7,000,141 in 1925, to 4,457,129 gallons valued at $7,001,432 in 1926; fresh milk exports amounted to 4,314,193 gallons valued at $784,081 in 1925, and to 4,801,705 gallons valued at $971,016 in 1926.
Practically all the cream and fresh milk exported from Canada comes to the United States. Exports of butter from Canada dropped from 26,646,500 pounds in 1925, to 24,400 pounds in 1926, and cheese exports dropped from 150,742,000 pounds in 1925 to 134,656,600 pounds in 1926. England is the largest market for Canadian butter and cheese. The total value of the cream, fresh milk, butter and cheese exported from Canada dropped from $2,277,718 in 1925 to $3,733,145 in 1926.
According to the chief dairy inspector for eastern Ontario, the production of cheese in the 692 factories in operation between May 1 and Nov. 1, 1926, in that area was 1,877,453 pounds during the same period of 1925. The quality of the product was improved last year and the chief inspector's report states that the increased output of first grade cheese was 1 per cent over 1925, states Trade Commissioner Lynn W. Meekins in a report to the department.

BUTTER TRADING FAIR DURING WEEK

Slow and Cautious Buying on Cheese Market to Fill Immediate Needs

Madison (P)—Trading on the butter markets was only fair during the past week, the department of markets reported in a weekend review.
"Several fractional price advances took place," the report said. "Supplies were limited, particularly the undergrades. Buyers were generally taking for actual needs only. Towards the end of the week dealers were holding all grades quite closely, especially on top scores which were held for premiums higher than buyers were willing to pay. Centralized market were in light supply throughout the week. Butter prices are about 8 cents higher than last year at this time."
"Slow and cautious trading prevails on the cheese markets. Business was largely for immediate needs and confined to smaller lots. Old cheese is clearing up well. Prices are about 1 1/2 cent higher than last year at this time."

TOMATO BLIGHT TRAGEDY TO LEAFHOPPER PEST

Corvallis, Ore.—The cause of western yellow tomato blight, which has puzzled scientists for 23 years, has been revealed by M. B. McKay and T. P. Dykstra of the Oregon experiment station.
Blame is laid on the leafhopper. As yet no efficient control for the blight, which ravages squash, bean and other crops as well as tomatoes, has been found.
"The disease comes from a virus that resides in curly-topped sugar beets and is carried by a leafhopper named 'Eutettix tenella,' according to the investigators."

A close relation was noticed between the unusually severe attacks of beet curly-top last year and unusual prevalence of western yellow blight of other crops. The investigators found the virus-carrying hoppers and put them to work upon plants under controlled conditions.
"The blight appeared on plants visited by a single disease-carrying hopper, proving the identity of the two pests and also the responsibility of the little leafhopper."

The guilty hopper is so elusive that no means of control have as yet been devised. He is only an eighth of an inch long and quite slender, of reddish straw color when growing.
He flies or hops readily and has been known to join whole masses of his fellows in long flights, though such migrations are rare.

CABBAGE PRICE TAKES BIG SLUMP IN WEEK

Owing to shipment of new cabbage from Texas and other southern fields, nearly "four times as heavy as a year ago," the price of cabbage on the local market slumped to $8 a ton on Monday. W. C. Williams, local cabbage dealer, shipped two cars of cabbage from Black Creek on Monday, and will ship thirteen cars this week. He says that most of the cabbage in this vicinity will be cleaned up this week. Notwithstanding the slump in the cabbage market at this time, Mr. Williams predicts that growers in this vicinity will stick to the usual acreage next season.

WOMAN IS EXPERT POULTRY BREEDER

Mrs. Robert Koester, Green Bay, Does Most Business With Private Customers

BY W. F. WINSEY
Green Bay — As a side line, Mrs. Robert Koester, highway 16, has been engaged in a combination of the poultry-raising business and growing vegetables the past 15 years. Each year she disposed of her crop to private customers in the city with whom she had verbal contracts, before the crop of her computers was ready for the market.
She raises Barred Rock and Rhode Island Red chickens, and the first five years in the business, she produced and sold brooding birds, baby chicks and eggs for hatching. The past nine years, she sold broilers, roasters, capons and sterile eggs to private customers.

The first three years in the poultry business she showed birds in competition at the De Pere fair and at chicken fairs in the Turner hall and captured all the first prizes as long as she continued in the contests.

The past year, Mrs. Koester produced and sold 2,500 birds from eight weeks to two years old and has been making weekly orders ranging from 21 to 28 dozen eggs.
She has ten chicken pens, each provided with a scratch floor, and never keeps more than 30 or 40 chickens of an age and breed in each pen. When the hens in a pen start laying, she keeps the birds at it continuously until their powers are exhausted and, as soon as they stop, sends them to the fattening pen. Individual birds are culled and placed in the fattening pen as soon as they stop laying. This culling process is on throughout the year. She well trained in Mrs. Koester that in the fifteen years of her experience, she has never killed a laying bird and never kept a quitter. She now has a flock of 100 pullets that began laying last October and she expects them to continue till Christmas.

BULLETIN TAKES UP MINERAL FEED VALUE

Not Necessary to Buy Expensive Commercial Mineral Mixtures, Expert Says

In the new bulletin, "The Mineral Feed Problem in Wisconsin," by Professor Hart, Steinbach, and Morrison, three eminent authorities on this subject at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, this pertinent statement is the concluding paragraph of the bulletin:
"It is entirely unnecessary to buy expensive commercial mineral mixtures. Just as good results can be secured by the following simple recommendation in these pages."

This bulletin contains the results of a large number of experiments with lime, meal, bone meal, rock phosphate, etc. in feeding cows, pigs, and chickens.
It explains how feeds, low in minerals may cause abortion, hairless pigs, leg weakness in chickens, and other ailments. It also shows where favorable results were obtained by the addition of the mineral. Some of the general conclusions contained in the bulletin are that alfalfa, or clover, hay, and grain mixtures with some bran or oil meal is fed, the mineral supply is ample. Where poor hay, especially from acid soils, is fed, good results were obtained by additions of the mineral to the ration.
The bulletin also sites results of minerals under certain conditions of swine feeding. Copies of this bulletin may be had from the College of Agriculture, or County Agent R. A. Amundson, at Appleton.

The pupils of the public schools probably will furnish a large part of the entertainment features of the institute programs. The members of the institute committee are Robert Amundson, Robert Doersch and William Hurst.

FIVE CORNERS PLANT DOES BIG BUSINESS

Factory Produces 314,498 Pounds of Cheese Valued at $64,482 in 1926

A total of 3,425,686 pounds of milk was received at the Five Corners Cheese factory during the past year, according to a report read at the annual meeting of the firm. This milk showed an average test of 3.322 per cent, and produced a total of 120,651.94 pounds of butterfat.
The factory manufactured 314,498 pounds of cheese for which $64,482.13, or an average of 20 1/2 cents a pound, was received. In addition, $4,071.14 was received for whey cream, bringing the total income to $68,553.27. The expense of making the cheese and separating the whey was $8,159.99.
After all expenses were paid the patrons received $60,393.28. The average price of whey cream per 100 pounds of milk was 12.28 cents, and the average price per 100 pounds of milk was $1.1665. The average yield for the year with the whey cream was 2.73.

Following officers were elected for the year: William Klitzke, reelected secretary; Henry Mehlberg, elected treasurer; committee, William Klitzke, Henry Mehlberg and Fred Krahm. The factory is owned and operated by Henry Mehlberg. It has a total of 49 patrons.

As a result of heavy rains which delayed seeding operations in Ohio, actual acreage sown is 34 per cent only half of the intended acreage.

PRESIDENTIAL QUALIFICATIONS
Worries over the prohibition question are not confined to the Democratic party. For every McAdoo within its ranks, there is a Butler in the Republican host, and what's more a Borah to accept the challenge. If Al Smith is to be the Democratic nominee and prohibition is to be the issue, he need not feel there is any greater lack of unity in his party than in that of the adversary.
When it comes to a showdown, there will be a few valiant leaders fighting for principle. They will demand a clear-cut plank for either a dry or a wet America, and if history is a guide the politicians who run the respective conventions will see to it that nothing of the kind goes in to the platforms. If the Democrats are essentially wet, they will go as far in that direction as prudence may dictate, but no further. They will not burn their bridges behind them, notwithstanding they have little to lose and everything to gain. If the Republican party is essentially dry, it will lean as far in that direction as clever politics may dictate, but it will be equivocal just as it has always been on ticklish issues. There will be a declaration about a national referendum, or something of the sort, to let the people decide. It will not face the music.
Of course, as a matter of fact it would be a misfortune to elect a president on the prohibition question. We may come to it, but it is not necessary. If we are to elect a man to that office because he is wet, then that will be his qualification, and conversely as to a dry candidate. A demagogue might easily get into the presidency on that kind of a platform. We should elect a president because of his qualifications of mind and heart, because of his economic and political leanings in the broadest sense of the terms, and because of his competency to deal with matters of state at home and abroad. The day we elect a president because he is a wet or dry we put a premium on cheapness, insincerity, unfitness and opportunism. We can imagine no more deplorable a disposition of that great office. We did not go that far in the election of president when slavery was a more bitter and distracting issue than prohibition could possibly be. Mr. Lincoln was not elected to put down slavery, nor in fact as an opponent of slavery. No greater mistake could have been made in that critical period than the election of an abolitionist as president.

So today we do not need to elect a wet or a dry president, as such. It is a question the people can and should determine irrespective of the presidency. Men most qualified to be president, and to serve the true welfare of the United States, may not even now be convinced in their own mind as to whether prohibition is a success or a failure, whether it ought to be continued or modified or repealed. It is an unfair test to apply. If the parties wish to take a stand on prohibition or repeal, that is their privilege and the nominees for president may place as little or as much emphasis on the plank as they desire, or they can ignore it altogether. Ultimately, settlement of prohibition is wholly within the hands of the people. They may elect men to congress who will modify the Volstead act or they may initiate a repeal of the eighteenth amendment. It is not necessary to "love" a president committed one way or the other to bring these changes about.

Great decrease in crime is anticipated in Ohio. The penitentiary is so crowded that no more prisoners may be admitted.
It won't be long now until our stage and screen Apollos will be acknowledging from every billboard that they "love to see a woman smoke a cigarette."
"You man" love affairs are taken to court instead of to heart.
"I'm who of Davy Crockett's famous maxim, 'Be sure you're tight, then go ahead!'"

THIRD TERM BOGEY
It will take more than the third-term fallacy to prevent Mr. Coolidge's renomination and election, provided he desires to return to the White house. Nicholas Murray Butler contends that Mr. Coolidge's common sense will not lead him into the error of attempting to set aside the "no-third-term" tradition attached to the presidency. There is no force to this argument. The idea that when a vice-president succeeds to the office at the death of the president he serves a term by his own right, is a popular misconception. The constitutional provisions touching the presidency do not contemplate such a construction of tenure. When the president dies, the vice president succeeds to the office automatically and is called upon to discharge the duties of that office until a successor is elected and qualified. He does not even resign as vice president. There are authorities who hold that the oath of office taken by the vice president when assuming the functions of the president, are both innocent and unnecessary.
It is the quality of his position, and not length of service, that determines the question of term. If the president were to die a month before the expiration of his term, and the vice-president succeeded, it would hardly be argued that he had served a term. Whether it is one month or one year or longer makes no difference, he is merely performing the duties of office until a president can be elected under the constitution. Mr. Coolidge, therefore, will have served but one term on March 4, 1928, and the third term bogey is no valid objection to his standing for reelection.

The whole thing is a matter of practice anyhow, for the constitution places no inhibition on third terms. The precedent established by Washington may or may not be wise to follow today. We can imagine an emergency in which it would for the best interests of the country to elect a president for the third term. However, we are not confronted by such an emergency, nor are we confronted by the question of having to decide whether we shall break the custom. Mr. Coolidge is perfectly eligible, both by precedent and constitution, for another term. The thought that he is not invoked by those opposing him politically, who fear that his strength and popularity will lead to his renomination and re-election. If Mr. Butler, or others who have raised this point, were ardent Coolidge men, we would never hear it mentioned.
It is said Mr. Coolidge himself does not regard the remainder of the Harding term, which he served out, as his first term. He will not, therefore, let that influence his decision. He will undoubtedly seek re-election if he feels there is a widespread and impressive demand for his continuance in office, which will be the best basis on which to determine the matter.

OLD MASTERS

I am a part of all that I have met; And all experience is an arch wherethrough Gleams that untravelled world, whose margin fades To a new morn'g; and for ever when I move.
How dull it is to pause, to make an end, To rest unburied, not to know how things will be, As though to breathe were life. Life piled on life Were all too little, and of one to me Little remains; but every hour is saved From that eternal silence, something more, A brinner of new things; and vile it were For some three suns to store and hoard myself. And this gray spirit yearning in desire To follow knowledge as a young horse follows his driver, To follow knowledge as a young horse follows his driver, Beyond the utmost bound of human thought.

America is leading the world in inventions, says a Boston professor. It's true. But there's still room at the top for the man who will devise a zipper for men's vests. . . . We have plenty of loud speakers, but very few soft ones. . . . You can find a photograph by telephone, but a fortune awaits the man who patents a method to make people look pleasant and be natural while it's being taken. . . . And one of these days when Max has a little time on his hands, why doesn't he turn his attention to the saxophone?
The king of England has invented a new buttonhole, says a dispatch. A strip of elastic across the lapel to hold a flower. We thought most of the kings nowadays carried their lilies in their hands. . . . The king's could organize a union of buttonhole artisans. . . . Mussolini would lend the organization King Victor Emmanuel, who could paint them.
King George could specialize in some kind of buttonhole which the prince could fasten to a button on his head.
King Ferdinand could help out with a durable buttonhole for Marie, hers being badly worn by the thumbs of American publicity hater.
The kings could convene annually and play "Who's got the button?" The monarchs have the buttonholes but the dictators certainly have the buttons.
John D. Rockefeller made eight holes of golf in 15, according to a dispatch from Florida. Two Sunday school teachers verified it. We don't know whether they got dimes or not.

KILLING THE PAIN, ALSO THE PATIENT
Salicylic acid and its derivatives, such as sodium salicylate, acetyl salicylic acid ester (more commonly known as aspirin), are justly famed as pain killers, particularly in cases of joint inflammation, nerve inflammation, the general aches of malaise, (as in the onset of various febrile illnesses), and just vague aches or discomforts (too often fancied by the patient as an excuse for indulging in the drug he craves).
Now it is the general consensus of sound medical opinion that an occasional dose of aspirin—which is no longer a proprietary medicine but a drug which anyone can manufacture and sell—is harmless for a normal individual. But there can be no question that the popular abuse of this pain killer is harmful to most persons and dangerous to some. By abuse I mean the bad habit of resorting to a dose of aspirin on the slightest pretext, a trifling cold, or imaginary headache, a sense of fatigue, or worse still, doping oneself with this medicine in anticipation of some such discomfort, as some aspirin inebriates do.
In any dose or any circumstances it is probable that aspirin is less injurious, less dangerous than the older and cheaper pain killer, acetaminophen, which is the "kick" in a thousand nostrums which purport to "cure" colds, headache, neuritis, fatigue, anxiety, worry, or any other sensation or consciousness the buyer may have in his head. In spite of the conspiracy to conceal certain forms of murder from the public, numerous fatalities from acetaminophen taken in "perfectly harmless" nostrums are on record in the form of coroner's verdicts, which are thoughtfully suppressed as unfit reading for the dear public. Occasionally, alarming poisoning occurs from aspirin, perhaps in an individual with an idiosyncrasy. I recall no fatalities from this pain killer, however. Still, for my own comfort—and I certainly like comfort when I can have it at a reasonable price—I should prefer to worry along with a moderate headache, or almost any ordinary ache, pain or misery, without a shot of aspirin, though I should take a dose of aspirin in preference to any other pain killer I know, if I simply had to get relief from severe suffering.
Salicylic acid and its derivatives gained their reputation as pain killers years ago in the treatment of severe joint inflammation. Some form of salicylate is the most grateful remedy we have today for the tortures of inflammatory rheumatism (rheumatic fever, acute multiple infectious arthritis). In which form and in which manner to administer this medicine is a problem of the physician. But although it relieves the pain, the great comfort that salicylic compound thus gives the patient has in it an element of danger, for too often the patient and his friends or family assume that this means a cure and the patient is permitted to a lodgment of the specific germs in the lining attempt activities which greatly increase the chance of the heart.

These salicylates have little if any effect upon the disease itself, either in the joints or in the heart, but merely numb consciousness of suffering. This holds true for the acetaminophen nostrums too. People who imagine these pain killers have beneficial effects upon disease do themselves a grave injustice. Among the untoward effects of the salicylic derivatives and the acetaminophen concoctions alike are excessive sweating and ringing or buzzing noises in the ears. The latter effect is popularly ascribed to the "quinine" which glib folk imagine is in such nostrums.
If a person who has been accustomed to athletic activity suddenly gives up all forms of exercise, will his muscles waste away or diminish in size? Would massage help to keep the muscles developed? (E. C.)
Answer—The muscles would probably diminish in size, though this would not be particularly noticeable in appearance. Massage would not make any difference.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Tuesday, Feb. 18, 1902
Appleton was to have another paper mill which was to be built the following spring by the Riverside Fibre Co. It had been announced a short time previous. It was to be located on the government canal on the site then occupied by the electric power house which was to be torn down as soon as the new power house commenced operations. The plans for the enterprise had been drawn by George and Johnson. Chances were being prepared amending the company's charter providing for increase of the capital stock to $170,000 and for a change of the name of the company to Riverside Fibre and Paper Co.
Members of the graduating class of Lawrence college were to give the annual exhibition that evening at Lawrence chapel. Those who were to speak and their subjects were: "The Working Man and the Church" by J. M. The campaign to raise funds for the proposed chapel-auditorium for Lawrence college was to open the following Monday morning. Captains of the 20 teams to work on the campaign were to meet that night at the Sherman house and were to select their workers. The captains included John Faville, general chairman of the Blue division and M. L. Spencer, general chairman of the Whites. Other captains included Dr. W. H. Abraham, John Bushy, R. E. Carneross, John Diederich, F. V. Evans, John Heringer, Dr. A. E. Reesor, Dr. C. J. Sandborn, Carlton Smith, and George Beckley. Dr. James Reeve, A. L. McKay, George Wettengel, P. P. EQUIPMENT OF HOMES.
Washington, D. C. — A survey of urban home equipment made by the General Federation of Women's Clubs shows that that great American institution, the bath tub, is not so universally in use in the town and city homes of this country as is popularly believed. Almost a third of the dwellings covered by the survey are minus this basic home equipment. In fact, a great many of the homes are minus various kinds of equipment that many people would think they could not get along without.
The Federation is deeply interested in the betterment of the American home, and its officials believe that every home should have the maximum of modern conveniences and labor saving devices. Before putting on a campaign to lighten the burdens of the average housewife however, it was deemed necessary to ascertain just how the average housewife was situated in this respect and two surveys were projected — one of rural homes and the other of urban homes.
All told, there are approximately 21,000,000 urban dwellings in the United States. The communities covered by the survey numbered 223, with a total population of more than 22,000,000, and 6,095,399 dwellings and 7,911,620 families were included in the study. The communities were grouped as to population, those under 100; those of 1000 to 2500; 2500 to 5000; 5000 to 10,000; 10,000 to 25,000; 25,000 to 50,000; 50,000 to 100,000; and over 100,000. More than half the communities studied were in the first two groups.
The community equipment was compiled as well as the home equipment, the first inquiry being as to water supply, and it was found that 83 per cent of the cities and towns had a public water supply, while 17 per cent depend upon private wells. As to other essentials, 95.5 per cent of the communities had electricity; 37.2 per cent had gas; 60.8 per cent had water protection against impurities; 60.8 per cent had public sewer systems; 39.2 per cent had only private disposal of sewage; 31.7 per cent had public collection of garbage, ashes, and trash, 11.2 per cent had private collection, and 58.8 had no collection at all; 90.2 per cent had public libraries.
Twenty-four different kinds of home equipment were listed in the questionnaires that were sent out, and it was found that the kitchen sink is the most common article, returns showing that 83.9 per cent of the dwellings had that useful adjunct of the kitchen. Eighty-two per cent of the dwellings had flush toilets; 71.3 per cent had wash basins; and 65.3 per cent had bath tubs.

New York—So rare are lawns in Manhattan that, when they appear almost in midtown, they become veritable points of interest and landmarks. Thus a little spot in Greenwich Village, known as "cottage row," gained its fame not because it was bought by John Rogers in 1799 for $5,000, but because it boasted 11 lawns. And luxurious lawns they are, running leisurely back to a series of latticed and balconied floors of Spanish architecture on Seventh avenue.
But they were too beautiful to live. I note that an apartment hotel will soon extinguish them.
Over on the Fifty-seventh street belt, where art galleries blossom profusely, they tell of a recent visitor from Hankins Centers, or some way point.
One gallery displayed a sign in the window:

Among the horrible details of the Browning-Peaches suit were those recitations of the baby bride that "Daddy" insisted on reading to her, bringing home truck rubber eggs, collapsible forks and the like.

The horses ridden by Manhattan's traffic cops become immediately suspicious when they see a crowd.
Just as the old-time fire horses would begin to race at the sound of a siren, so the traffic ponies spring into action at the sight of gathering hordes.
The other day a motion picture device was being shown in the window of a prominent store and soon a great crowd gathered. A few moments later up galloped a traffic policeman. The horse made his way through the crowd, poured into the other States, and seemed to be what was going on. He watched the film for a moment and then casually backed out.

Q. Does the Washington Monument sway? J. L. H.
A. The Washington Monument bends slightly. This is rendered perceptible by means of a copper wire to keep the other States within the center of the structure, and carrying a plummet suspended in a vessel of water. At noon in summer the apex of the monument is shifted by expansion of the stone a few hundredths of an inch toward the north. High noon is the best time to observe the vibrations of the earth's crust are also registered by this instrument.
Q. Does silk or wool retain body heat better? K. W. G.
A. Silk and wool are both non-conductors of heat. The latter retains body heat somewhat more than silk because of the air-holding spaces in the fibers and because of lower evaporation.
Q. Please explain the term "fourth dimension." B. D. B.
A. The fourth dimension is a type of geometry, which conceives a hyperspace of "X" dimensions, in which space is conceived not of points, but of lines. Under such division, space has four dimensions, since four determinations are necessary to fix a line in space. Mathematicians agree as to the practical value of this idea as it leads to important simplifications of the mathematical language and gives greater clearness to the concepts of real geometry.
Q. Has any woman made a round of 75 in championship play at golf? A. S.
A. Miss Glenna Collett made rounds of 77 and 75 in a championship match with Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser.
Q. What notable Americans were given places in the Hall of Fame in 1925? W. A.

and the national officers agree that there are abundant opportunities to use all that income that can be provided.
The work of the Federation is divided under eight heads — American citizenship, the American home, education, fine arts, international relations, legislation, press and publicity, and public welfare.
One of its most ambitious projects is a fight on illiteracy. First an illiteracy survey will be made, covering a typical county in each State, and then the club women will undertake to wipe out illiteracy in each of those counties as the beginning of statewide campaigns. National educators are hopeful of striking results from this work.
Mrs. John D. Sherman, of Colorado, has been President of the General Federation for more than two years now, and during her incumbency it has made a remarkable growth. There are now more than 15,000 clubs affiliated with the national organization, and it has been demonstrated that when they all get in motion along a given line or to a common end, the country discovers speedily that there is something going on.
Fifty-eight of the affiliated clubs are composed of English-speaking women in various other countries of the world. These clubs are not restricted to English or American women, but the members must be able to speak English. Some of them are notable organizations, the American Women's Club in Paris, for example, having a membership of more than 1100.
The Federation dates back to a meeting of club women called by the Sorosis, of New York, known as "the mother of the clubs," in 1859. It was chartered by a special act of Congress in 1901.

HUGE ENDOWMENT TO BE RAISED
At the recent meeting at the headquarters in Washington it was decided that the Federation will raise an endowment fund of $5,000,000, the income of which will be used to finance the various activities of the organization. Heretofore the Federation has been supported by a 10-cent per capita assessment annually on all the members of all the affiliated clubs. Considerable sums have been raised in this manner, but not enough to meet all the requirements and at times important opportunities for service have been lost because of a lack of funds.
Complete details as to how the endowment fund will be raised have not been worked out as yet, but it is planned to have a separate drive in each state. Each state organization will retain one-half of the money raised in its jurisdiction. All these campaigns will be coordinated under the direction of an expert in money-raising drives. While $5,000,000 has been set as the desired objective an even larger fund will be welcomed.

The Question Box

Q. Can local surveyors obtain any of the data of the Coast and Geodetic Survey? F. L. M.
A. Four or five years ago the Survey inaugurated the practice of placing at the disposal of local and county surveyors data accumulated by the bureau so as to encourage more accurate surveys. Since then cooperation has been extended to approximately 4000 surveyors. Through printed digests, in which counties are listed alphabetically, the descriptions of Coast and Geodetic Survey triangulation stations, magnetic stations and precise level bench marks have been made available.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

Never Hatches Twins
BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.
The mother marsh hawk, like many birds of prey, does not wait until her entire clutch of eggs is laid before she begins her parent, task of brooding them. In fact, she starts brooding as soon as the first egg is laid.
In this way the precious treasures in the nest are never left unguarded, open to the attack of prowling enemies.
Of course her fledglings are not all hatched on the same day. The first of the young hawks make their appearance several days before the last of the brood breaks his way out of the imprisoning shell. The length of this interval depends on the number of days that intervened between the laying of the first and last egg.
It keeps the mother hawk on the job longer than would otherwise be necessary, but at least she knows the eggs are not going unwatched.
As the young hawks grow the difference in their ages is plainly noticeable.

ELECTRIC PLANTS IN STATE BREAK 3 RECORDS IN 1926

Aggregate Output of All Generating Plants Establishes New Mark

Milwaukee. (P)—Electric plants in Wisconsin broke three records in 1926. This is shown in official figures received by the Wisconsin Public Utility Information Bureau from the United States Geological Survey. One record was established in the aggregate output of all generating plants, another was in production efficiency by coal burning plants and the third was in water power output.

Electric production by coal burning and hydro-electric plants aggregated 1,816,426,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 17 per cent over 1925.

Coal burning plants generated 550,315,000 kilowatt hours, and consumed only $16,319 tons of coal and 10,751 barrels of fuel oil in this production. On the average only 1.72 lbs. of coal were consumed as against 1.87 lbs. in 1925 to generate one kilowatt hour of energy. As a consequence of this efficiency, 71,274 fewer tons of coal had to be burned than in 1925 to produce the same amount of electricity. Interconnections, consolidations of small plants with the larger, and abandonment of inefficient plants also played a prominent part in establishing this record of efficiency.

"Savings effected by these economies were passed on to the public in the form of reduced rates and in extending hours into the night of the state and yet able to yield fair returns on the investments involved," making these extensions," says a report from the utility information bureau.

Water power production exceeded all previous years. The aggregate generation amounted to 365,121,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 27 per cent over 1925. Abundant rainfall and the operation of additional hydro stations amounted for the record established.

The greatest total output by water powers took place in October and the month of February. Coal burning plants produced their largest output in January and their smallest in June. Homes and industries used the most electric service in October and the least in February.

Central stations added 27,895 new customers during the year, bringing the total number to 481,335 as of Jan. 1 of this year. Of this aggregate, 380,335 are domestic customers, 77,540 commercial lighting customers and 23,461 power customers.

MARQUETTE KICKS ON FAVORITISM TO U. W.

Milwaukee. (P)—Protesting against the law which permits University of Wisconsin law graduates to gain admission to the bar without state examination, whereas other law graduates must submit to such examination, Marquette university law student and alumni are supporting a bill introduced in the legislature by Assemblyman Barney Spott of Milwaukee.

The bill would repeal the state law which gives Wisconsin graduates the privilege of practicing without first passing a state bar examination. If it is passed, state university law graduates would be required to meet a standard set by public judicial authority as outlined in state bar examinations.

The law favoring Wisconsin students was passed in 1870.

The American Bar association and the Wisconsin Bar association have both gone on record as being opposed to the privilege accorded Wisconsin graduates.

DON'T WASTE TIME, MEN OF HOLY NAME CLUB TOLD

Do not misuse your time was the advice given by the Rev. Wm. E. Korman, diocesan director of charities in the Green Bay diocese of the Catholic church, at the monthly meeting of Holy Name society of St. Joseph church Sunday morning at the church hall. He spoke on the Value of Time.

People do not take advantage of time when it is presented to them, the speaker said. They feel there is plenty of time ahead to accomplish the things they should. He spoke particularly of the value of time in a spiritual way.

About 500 members of the society attended Holy Communion at the church in a body at 8 o'clock in the morning, and 550 were present at the breakfast served in the hall by the Young Ladies society of the church.

445 DOG LICENSES ISSUED SINCE JAN. 1

A total of 445 dog licenses were issued in Appleton since Jan. 1, according to Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer. Last year there were more than 700 licenses issued, however, indicating that many people have been lax in applying for licenses. The police department will begin canvassing the city and all people having dogs without licenses will be forced to pay the annual fee or lose the animal. All dogs over six months of age on Jan. 1 must have licenses.

FEW PUPILS FAIL TO DEPOSIT MONEY

Only 1 1/2 Per Cent of Students Do Not Make Deposits Last Week

Only 1 1/2 per cent of the school pupils enrolled in Thrift, Inc., school banking system, did not deposit money during the week ending Feb. 2. Of the 3,054 enrolled, 3,000 or 98 1/2 per cent saved money. There were eight schools with perfect records for the week: Columbus, Franklin, Fourth ward, Richmond, McKinley, Lincoln, First ward and Appleton high school. For the first time this year the senior high school has banked 100 per cent, although it has reached 99 per cent on other banking days.

A sum of $577.55 was deposited. There were 38 withdrawals of $183.79, and interest credited for the week was $6.57, leaving a balance on deposit of $24,886.60.

Records of the schools were: Columbus, 215 enrolled, 220 depositors, and $45.29 deposited; Franklin, 223 enrolled, 223 depositors, and $23.39 deposited; Fourth ward, 200 enrolled, 200 depositors, and $23.33 deposited; Richmond, 50 enrolled, 51 depositors, and $4.29 deposited; McKinley, 92 enrolled, 92 depositors, and $13.85 deposited; Lincoln, 161 enrolled, 161 depositors, and $23.37 deposited; First ward, 396 enrolled, 396 depositors, and $107.53 deposited; Roosevelt, 380 enrolled, 365 depositors, and $92.98 deposited; Appleton high, 557 enrolled, 557 depositors, and $151.38 deposited; Wilson, 237 enrolled, 235 depositors, and $28.91 deposited; Washington, 244 enrolled, 225 depositors, and $35.86 deposited; Jefferson, 199 enrolled, 185 depositors, and $17.15 deposited.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaker; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. adv

A PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Buying Clothing By The Yard--

ARE WOMEN POOR SPORTS?

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

ARE women short sports? Mrs. Molla Mallory, former national tennis champion, says they are. She says more than that. "Women are nasty, jealous creatures," in her ultimatum. "Their natures are bound to come out. They will not or cannot mask their feelings and so tennis is not suited to the feminine temperament." Mrs. Mallory is not a feminist.

Perhaps it is not such a far cry from Mrs. Mallory's statement to the gesture Glenna Collett is making by organizing a new $300,000 golf club for women only, accented, near Greenwich, Conn.

NO GESTURE

The temporary departure of the golf champion into the field of committees, architects, and real estate is no doubt more than a gesture. It looks as though it might be a protest against the unfair treatment of women on golf courses where men and women play but where "men have all the say."

This may not be her reason. It may be that certain women, headed by Miss Collett, merely want their own golf course so they may do as they please and have nose-powdering parties on each and every green, or play ping-pong over the bunkers.

But it may also be because so many golf courses now have tacked up on their caddy-houses neat but not-to-be-mistaken signs which read: "Women members are requested not to play on Saturdays and Sundays and holidays, or on week days before 4 p. m."

CHAMPIONS CAUSE

If Miss Collett wished to play on any course in the United States at mid-night in February, every golf fan to a man would turn out to put up King lights and sweep off the snow for her. So she has no personal axe to grind. She is championing a cause, not a sport, now.

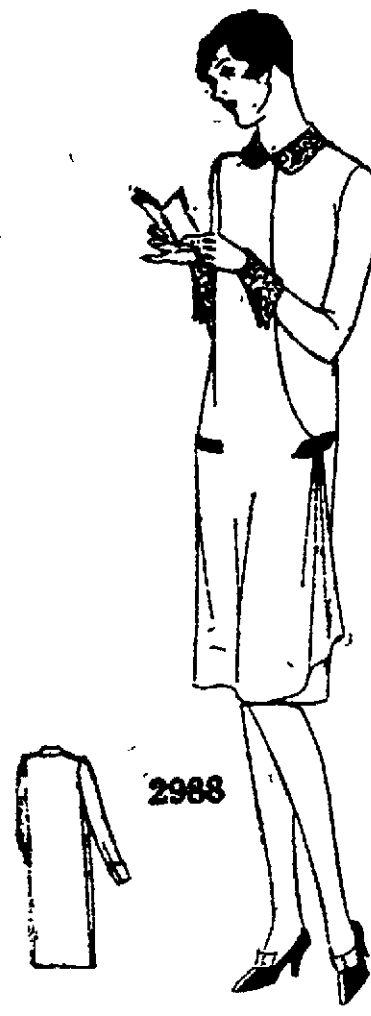

Men take it for granted, I suppose, that women have nothing to do. Most women over 21 years are as busy as men, and many are busier. Their hours of leisure are about the same. So there you are!

SHORT SPORTS--WHO?

Men that rival Lord Beaconsfield in the drawing room or the Prince of Wales on the dance-floor can be as rude as sin to a woman on a golf course.

Is it a stand against feminism? If it is, who are the short sports?

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

BREAKFAST—Winter pears, cereal, thin cream, scrambled eggs with fried dried beef, corn bread, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cream of onion soup, croissants, sweet potato and pineapple salad, whole wheat bread, steamed fig pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Baked halibut steaks with dressing, shoestring potatoes, dandelion greens with bacon dressing, caramel nut custard, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

After making the caramel and spreading it evenly over the baking dish, sprinkle chopped nuts evenly over the caramel. Then add the custard mixture and bake as usual. The nuts absorb some of the caramel and have an unusual and delicious taste. The dessert must of course be served very cold.

STEAMED FIG PUDDING

Three-fourths cup chopped figs, 1-3 cup granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 egg, 1-2 cup milk, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Five or six figs are put through the food chopper and thoroughly mixed with 2 tablespoons sifted flour. Cream butter and gradually beat in sugar. Add one or two tablespoons sifted flour, beating to keep mixture perfectly smooth. Add egg well beaten. Mix and sift remaining flour with salt and baking powder and add alternately with milk and vanilla to first mixture. Stir in prepared figs and turn into a well buttered mold. Cover mold and steam for one hour. Serve with whipped cream or hard sauce.

PRACTICE KNEE-LIFTER TO BE RID OF FLESH BELOW WAISTLINE

POSED FOR NEA SERVICE BY CAROL CROUSE

BY NINON

THE question put to me most frequently by beauty seekers is this: "How can I part, amicably or otherwise, with my hips?"

And my answer is that the initiative will have to be exercised by you and you will get rid of them without considerable effort.

There is nothing a hip hates more than hard work, and if you make it work, it will naturally leave.

Here is an exercise that I recommend for getting rid of flesh, below the waist. Raise your right knee until it touches your chest, or comes as close to touching as it will. Then do the same with your left.

Walk across the room, doing this exercise as you go, and keep it up until you are tired. This pulls and exercises those lazy muscles that have very little to do and consequently invite the flesh to settle down and multiply.

When you are tired of this particular position, lie flat on the floor, and raise the knees to the chest, then kick upward and let the legs stretch down flat to the floor, under control.

Besides attacking fat cells, this exercise is an excellent one for the spine and for the symmetrical development of the legs.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Newspaper city editors, reporters and feature writers must have been profoundly grateful to Martha Lane for dying so dramatically and opportunely—opportunities from the standpoint, at least—and they demonstrated their appreciation by packing their Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning editions with many columns of sensational and sentimental accounts of the funeral, the conduct of the various members of the Lane family.

There were pages of pictures—pictures of the sorrowful family following the coffin to the hearse, pictures of the flower-laden coffin itself, pictures of the throngs gathered in the street before the Myrtle Street house; pictures of the cemetery and the crowds gathered there; pictures of the mourners grouped about the open grave; pictures of the coffin being lowered into the grave; a picture of Faith kneeling to take her hysterical little sister into her arms to comfort her; a picture of the fat, old Methodist minister reading the nonstop, beautiful lines of the burial service, and of course a picture of the grave banked high with floral tributes from friends and strangers.

But a brief news story in the Thursday morning papers took precedence in the public eye over the funeral, dramatic though it had been. "CHERRY AND WILEY TO BE ARRAIGNED TODAY" told the news in a line, and by nine o'clock Thursday morning police reserves had to be called out to manage the crowds that stampeded the county court house, fighting for a glimpse of the prisoners, one of whom the papers had unanimously described as "the most beautiful girl ever indicted for murder in this state."

"Special correspondents" and "sob sisters," sent on from New York, Chicago and even Los Angeles and San Francisco, went still further in their printed estimate of the beauty of the accused girl, with Bob Hathaway, took their seats in the section reserved for them. The packed auditorium buzzed with comments on the relatives of the prisoner who was so soon to appear to make her plea in answer to the indictment which the grand jury had found against her.

"Here comes the Judge," Junior whispered hoarsely. "The first half of his name ain't no lie either."

Faith raised her heavy, grief-weary eyes to gaze for the first time upon the man who would eventually play so tremendous a part in deciding the fate of her sister.

Love Letters Of The Great

LOVE LETTERS OF THE GREAT

EDITED BY DIANA RICE

COMTE DE MIRABEAU—1749-1791

"About her the breathings of dawn and of spring, the most delicious little air of modesty and timidity."

This was Sophie de Monnier when she met Mirabeau, the distinguished French statesman and writer, in June, 1775. Married to a husband more than three times her age, who paid her scant court, Sophie finally succumbed to the devotion of the gallantly-mannered young Comte de Mirabeau. They fled to Switzerland. But while Sophie loved the obscure Mirabeau, she left him when he became famous.

It is doubtful whether any Frenchman ever held a more envied position than did Gabriel-Honore de Riquetti, Comte de Mirabeau, not only in the Paris of this day, but in the court circles of other countries. There were many other women who received the adulations of this famous courtier, but Sophie de Monnier was by many thought to have been the great love of his life. He was said to have tried to stem the torrent of revolution which Voltaire undammed.

Comte de Mirabeau de Monnier to Sophie de Monnier.

The moment of our eternal separation has come, oh my tender Sophie. The illusions of love have long abused us; but nature does not lose its rights. The slow poison of pain has consumed my friend, he is dying.

Oh! too unfortunate half of myself! what may soften this terrible blow, more cruel a hundredfold than the one which shall strike me in a few hours perhaps? I quit you, and the pain is bitter, but it will end with my life. The heart where you still reign shall no longer palpitate for love or sorrow; and you remain to weep over your Gabriel. . . . Ah! Sophie, I pity you, I am much less unfortunate than you, since I was not destined to survive you.

But think you that you are relieved of all obligations to me? No, Sophie, no: she lives, the dear child which your love gave to me. She lives to palliate my loss, to compensate you as much as may be possible. She has you only; you alone are her mother, you alone are her father; you owe her the love of two hearts. Ah! my Sophie, what duties you still have to fulfill, and what consolations shall come to you in their fulfillment.

Dear Sophie! oh, my well-beloved! the clock of my heart guard yourself well from outraging love and nature by the crime of despair. Often, in the passionate deliriums of your tenderness you have sworn not to survive me. . . . Were you a mother then, oh, my sweetheart? No, you were not; and if you felt bound at present by this temporary and guilty oath, you would be as timorous a sweetheart as unnatural a mother.

Yes, my adored Sophie, I beseech to my daughter all my rights that she may inherit; I leave to her all your care, all your tenderness; and if I mistrusted my sweetheart's courage and her condescendence to my aid, and last, my prayers, I would die in despair for having given birth to a child for whom I can do nothing, and for having thus by a single fault sacrificed mother and child to my fatal love. Oh, Sophie, Sophie, would you let it come to pass that a passion so tender, and so pure, and so faithful, should at my last breath prove a source of cruel and devouring remorse? Live, oh! my sweetheart! give to me this evidence of tenderness: live to press in your arms my daughter, to talk to her of her father, to tell her how he loved you, how he loved her, how much he would have loved her. Ah! if in the bosom of the earth where I am returning, I could preserve this celestial spark, this sensible soul the forces and the energy of which were concentrated by you. I could hope to reunite with me some day my sweetheart and my child. . . . I know not, my Sophie, I know not: I cannot think that my love shall not live as long as there shall exist a particle of my being. Be it illusion, or be it reality, the soul of Gabriel and that of Sophie, their incomparable tenderness, seem to me indestructible. This idea is consoling; it implies promise of a witness who judges our hearts, who know if we deserve treatment so barbarous; who more indulgent than men, will forgive our weakness, and purify sentiments that do not offend virtue. . . . Oh! if in a realm of eternal felicity, shielded from calumniators fanatics and tyrants, we were reunited to love each other again and to adore you! God! all-powerful God, render unto me my sweetheart; forgive me as a reward for her virtues. Ah! if I have denied Thy Providence, it were that I should be not tempted to believe Thee and accomplice of the wicked: Thou knowest my sincerity; thy feeble creature could not offend Thee. Couldst Thou be irritated against him and punish him for the weakness of his understanding? Cast, cast at least a look of clemency on the one that my error has seduced; enlighten her, protect her, give to her the strength to resist the sentiment of my loss, to discover the truth, to reveal it to my daughter, and to deserve to become an object of Thy mercy. . . .

Alas! my Sophie, this letter is very long for the moment that will necessitate your reading it. What shall I add? Shall I enervate your soul, when I implore you to be strong against misfortune? I mistrust my own tenderness, and I finish. . . . for ever I finish. Ah! thank unceasingly that the one who shall die while pronouncing your name, who cherishes you with the most tender and most faithful love, who never failed, at any moment of his life, not even in idea, to keep the sentiments that he had sworn to you, exacts from your tenderness and, if he dare say, from your gratitude, that you live for your daughter, who is mine.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE baby ostrich sure was queer. It eyed the Tynymites with fear, and then wee Scouty loudly said, "We'd best be on our way. The mother ostrich may get mad, and if she does that will be sad. She'll bite us, so we'd best be off. Is all I've got to say."

Just then the mother ostrich came and seemed to wonder who to blame. Oh, she was mad indeed. She grabbed poor Clowdy by the waist and tossed him in the air in haste. He landed in a sandpit, but was glad that he was freed.

The other Tynymites scampered round, and got away with leap and bound. As soon as he was able Clowdy also disappeared. The bunch all ran for about a mile, then got together after while,

and quite agreed that ostriches should always be much feared.

They rested for a spell, to talk. Then Coppy spied a long board walk.

"I wonder where that goes to," he remarked. "Let's go and see. There's nothing here that we can do. Perhaps it leads to something new. If anybody's curious, well, kindly follow me."

The hand all calmly trusted along. They laughed and played and sang a song. Then Scouty said, "I see a man. I wonder if he's kind. No one has ever hurt us yet, and neither will this man. I'll bet. I don't think he will mind."

Then as they walked and closer drew, just who the man was they all knew. He had a lot of big balloons, all tied to little sticks. Then Scouty said, "We'll watch the man, and be as careful as we can." And then he warned poor Clowdy not to pull off any tricks.

(The Tynymites start on another trip in the next story.)

How To Play Bridge

DO NOT BID AN INITIAL NO TRUMP UNLESS YOU HAVE 1. THREE SUITS SAFELY STOPPED. AND 2. A HAND ABOVE THE AVERAGE.

A suit, for No Trump purposes, is safely stopped when it is headed by an Ace or a King (provided the King is not a singleton) or by a Queen Jack provided the suit contains at least four cards.

Hands turn up about once a year which should be bid No Trump although they have but two suits stopped, such a hand, for example, as:

Spades: Ace-King-Jack. Hearts: Ace-King-Ten. Diamonds: x-x-x-x. Clubs: x-x-x, a holding entirely too strong to pass and with no biddable suit. I held only one such hand in 1925, and so far none in 1926; they are so exceptional that they do not deserve much consideration and do not warrant being stressed as an exception to a general rule. When you have the strength for a two-suit No Trump, one of the suits is apt to be of more than three cards and in that case the suit—not a No Trump—should be the declaration. For all practical purposes, having three suits stopped may be regarded as a No Trump essential.

Now what is a hand above the average? An even division of the high cards would give each player one Ace, one King, one Queen and one Jack; so anything better than that is above the average and is strong enough to bid No Trump provided three suits are stopped. One Ace, one King, one Queen and two Jacks are just sufficient. For example:

Spades: Ace-x-x. Hearts: King-Jack-x. Diamonds: Queen-Jack-x. Clubs: x-x-x-x would qualify nicely.

To an experienced player, determining whether a hand is above the average is the simplest of tasks and can be accomplished while sorting the cards; but for those who would hesitate with some such as:

Spades: Ace-x-x. Hearts: King-10-x. Diamonds: King-x-x. Clubs: Jack-x-x-x (it should be bid because three suits are stopped and a King is better than a Queen) and who like a mathematical method, I give the simplest and best that I know. Reckon an Ace as four, a King as three, a Queen as two, and a Jack as one. When the total is eleven or more, you are strong enough to bid an initial No Trump; when the total is ten or less, you are not.

With exactly an average hand (a count of ten), a No Trump bid might be justified (it doubtless would be for an expert) if all four suits were safely stopped; but this is a point worth little consideration as such a hand rarely occurs. It can be illustrated by the following:

Spades: Ace-x. Hearts: King-x-x. Diamonds: Queen-9-x. Clubs: Jack-10-x-x.

Now for a new type of question, what should a Dealer bid holding:

(COPYRIGHT JOHN F. DILLE CO.)

A Dealer or a Second Hand, Dealer having passed) has the requisite strength for a No Trump when he has high-card strength above the average three suits stopped and at least two cards in his shortest suit. But there are many hands amply strong enough to bid a No Trump—hands with much more strength than the most conservative would require—which are nevertheless unsound No Trump bids because they are better suit bids. To illustrate with an extreme example: Spades: Ace-King-Queen-Jack-10. Hearts: Ace-King-Queen. Diamonds: Ace-King-Queen. Clubs: Queen-Jack. This hand has three suits stopped; has two Aces, two Kings, three Queens and one Jack above the average; has a high-card count of thirty-one (eleven being the minimum requirement); has two cards and considerable strength in his shortest suit; but in spite of all that, only a No Trump would give up a sure game in Spades with 100 assured honors for a possible game in No Trump, the making of which would probably depend upon the partner's holding the Ace or King or the 10-x-x in Clubs with an assured 30 and a possible 40 for honors. In this extreme case the situation is apparent; but with hands somewhat weaker, the arguments in favor of the suit bids may be just as valid, although not as self-evident. For example, the hand given before:

Spades: Ace-Queen-10. Hearts: Ace-King-Queen-Jack-x-x. Diamonds: Ace-King. Clubs: x-x-x, fully qualifies for a No Trump.

Chaperones were W. A. McConaghia, Miss Jessie M. Pate and Fred Bendt. Dan Courtney's orchestra played for dancing. About 25 couples were present and an alumnus returned for the party. Elmer Rehben of Milwaukee. Gallies were used in the decorations, and favors of the party were bookends in the shape of gallies.

Three birthday anniversaries were celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sharp at Kimberly Monday evening. Guests of honor were Mrs. Edward Drinkman, Miss Mayme Schweitzer and Eugene Harp. Games, stunts and cards furnished entertainment. Mrs. Drinkman presented a group of fancy dress stunts. Prizes at games were won by Mrs. William Hopfensberger, Miss Mary Grode, Miss Naomi Hopfensberger and Miss Schweitzer. Other guests were William Hopfensberger, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sheehy, Edward Brinkman, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. B. Handler, Miss Nellie Van Tassel, Miss Leona Muelmann, Miss Florence Dement, Miss Loreta Paquette, Miss Vera Harp, Miss Estelle Presgrave, George Sprangers, John Van Treck, Raymond Hopfensberger, Harold Hopfensberger, and Herbert Hopfensberger.

Trump, meeting all the requirements given in the three preceding articles, but a No Trump bid would be most unwise because Hearts is so much safer; game with that suit the trump being much more probable. Another very usual type of hand which calls for a suit-bid rather than No Trump, is:

Spades: King-Jack-x-x-x. Hearts: Ace-x. Diamonds: Ace-Queen-Jack. Clubs: x-x-x.

The above described system of selecting a Major suit in preference to a No Trump is not advisable with a partner who does not understand major-suit denials, but with a partner up to date in that respect, it is a winner. The most important topic—denials—will soon be discussed in this series of articles.

Our pointer for today is:

WHEN THE HAND CONTAINS AN UNSTOPPED SUIT DO NOT BID NO TRUMPS IF YOU HAVE A BIDDABLE FIVE-CARD MAJOR.

The following question will be answered tomorrow:

South bids one Spade and obtains the contract; what should West lead from this hand:

Spades: Jack-x-x-x. Hearts: Queen-Jack-Ten. Diamonds: King-x-x-x. Clubs: Jack?

Coppes Engineering Movement to Enter Squad in Fox River Valley League

Kaukauna—Kaukauna will have organized baseball this year according to a statement made by John Coppes Monday. An effort is being made to enter a team in the Fox River Valley baseball league. At a meeting of the Fox River loop on Sunday it was decided to admit Kaukauna providing another team could be found to make an eight team league. The league meeting was attended by Mr. Coppes and he said the local team had received an invitation to join the Eastern Wisconsin league which it no doubt would do if it is successful in gaining admission to the valley league. The Kaukauna ball players met Monday at John Coppes' place Sunday afternoon and every player expressed himself in favor of having a team. "To put Kaukauna back on the baseball map" was the motive behind the organization of the Kaukauna team, Mr. Coppes said. The game is not to be commercialized in any way. Kaukauna will be represented by a strictly home talent aggregation. The players will cooperate with the Kaukauna Athletic association in making a success of baseball in this city. Mr. Coppes said the association had fulfilled its old obligations and has a balance in the treasury. Besides the repair job amounting to $400 has been done on the ball park fence to put it in shape for the summer. Another meeting of the ball players has been called for Wednesday evening at John Coppes' place when definite plans for the coming season will be made. At that time manager and other officers will be elected.

A Farm Auction Sale Must Be Well Advertised To Be A Success

WHEN the farmer sets a date on which to dispose of his farm and personal property — it means that thousands of dollars worth of property must be disposed of in ONE SINGLE DAY.

THEREFORE it is of the utmost importance to reach all individuals who might be interested in some article or animal to be sold.

The Public Medium

best suited for this purpose in OUTAGAMIE and surrounding Counties is the APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

WHY?

- (1) It reaches 9 out of every 10 rural homes in Outagamie and surrounding counties.
- (2) Farmers are close readers and act promptly on advertising published in our "Auction" and "Poultry and Livestock" columns. (We see evidences of this every day.)
- (3) The Post-Crescent is a medium that is welcomed in every home and thus carries its advertising message inside the home where it is read at leisure.
- (4) No other advertising medium can broadcast the news of your sale so thoroughly over a large territory—and with such economy.

YOUR AUCTION SALE SHOULD BE ADVERTISED IN THE POST-CRESCENT AUCTION COLUMNS

(Turn TODAY to Classification 90-A, (Auction Directory) and note the sales scheduled and to be advertised in detail in the Post-Crescent).

Broken Threads

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
To the home of PROF and MOLLIE ELWELL in Camdenville, Ind., one night in October, 1898, is brought a woman who had fainted on a train. That night she bears twin girls and dies without revealing her name.

The story then moves forward 18 years. The twins, now growing to beautiful womanhood, have been adopted and named MARGARET and ELIZABETH. They are now in the hands of JIM ELWELL, the son, enlisted in the World War. He then discovers that one of the twins loves him.

He is shell-shocked at the Battle of Sedan and at first is reported dead. Much later, however, he is identified in a New York hospital. His parents hasten to him to find he has lost memory and speech. He is like a living dead man.

The day before his parents are to take him home, Jim wanders away. Late that night he is found in Bellevue hospital, unconscious, his skull fractured, expected to die.

The twins are in Indianapolis at the home of their uncle JOHN CLAYTON, a mystery man. The twins, having been cleared while Jim was away. Some time later Mollie writes to them that Jim will live but his memory is forever gone. She tells them she is bringing him home.

The night before Jim leaves, Ned Downing calls up JACK NEVIN, newspaperman, to tell him she has a "story" for him.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
CHAPTER XLIII
"Ed," said Jack Nevin. "A story with pictures and everything? You talk like a newspaperman—a press agent—don't you know which?"

"I haven't forgotten," she told him, "the crushed look in your eyes the night I asked you not to print the story about Jim Elwell and his accident."

"Well," he admitted, "it was a beautiful story. It had everything. But—what's the story you've got up your sleeve now?"

"I'm not telling. I said tomorrow night."

"Suppose some other paper gets hold of it?"

"No danger of that," she assured him. "Space," he urged, "is pretty good tonight. Tomorrow you may be tighter than the devil and not be able to give it a play."

"No, Jack—not until tomorrow night. Jim Elwell goes home tomorrow."

"Oh, I see"—his voice had fallen a trifle—"and as soon as they're out of town you'll be free to let me spring it, is that it?"

"I'm saying nothing more except that it is a better story than it ever was."

"Well, I'll certainly take your word for it."

That, she told him, was one of the things she liked about him—his willingness to trust her judgment.

The next evening Jim Elwell and his parents and Mike Hennegan caught the train for home. Nellie Downing was at the station to say goodby and Mollie cried as she kissed the little nurse and wished her well.

"You've been so wonderful. You've been positively noble. I can never thank you." She dabbed at her eyes with her handkerchief.

Nellie's eyes, too, were wet. "But I was so glad to do it. You mustn't thank anyone for performing a task that had so much pleasure in it."

She stuck out her hand to Prof. "Goodby, Prof."

He took the hand, then kissed her. "Goodby. We'll see you again some time, I hope."

When she took leave of Jim, Nellie Downing kissed him, too. And Mollie Elwell, instead of feeling apprehensive, smiled happily. There was a reason for being worried now. Mollie Downing had talked to her.

to, gals," added the hotel proprietor. "Back to stay a while?"

They were, Martha admitted. She was recent concerning Jim's expected arrival that evening.

She and the girls, after exchanging a few more remarks with the postmaster and proprietor of the Palace Hotel, made their way to the Elwell house and prepared a late luncheon for themselves.

"Wouldn't it be awful," erupted Rusty, all excitement, as the trio seated themselves at the table, "if something happened?"

"Something better not happen," remarked Betty dully. "And there better not be anybody hinting that anything might happen, either. I've known people being murdered in cold blood and their bodies thrown in the river less than that. Something happened last time, but it better not happen again."

She turned a threatening eye on Nurse Dalton who hadn't said a word, and seemed to be daring her to say something in her defense.

"Well, well," soothed the lady who had learned to tell work where to go without the flicker of an eyelash, "well try and not let anything happen this time."

Rusty laid a caressing hand over that of the old nurse.

"You said it, Dolly dear," she told her, "but you know it sometimes seems to me that anything, almost anything, can happen since I found out that my darling old nurse has learned to swear."

"Rusty Elwell—or Marvin, I mean," expostulated Martha Dalton, quite shocked, "you must be careful. There's a lot of folks in this little town who might not understand that little joke."

"Uncle John told me," said Rusty. "He said you were now in a position to tell—"

"That will be enough now."

Betty left the room to unpack the hair the baggage man was bringing in. After unsnuffing it in the sitting room she twanged at it experimentally and began to hum dreamily.

"I hope," she whispered, "oh, how I hope Jim will remember when he hears it."

Rusty stood beside her. She had left Martha Dalton at the table in the dining room.

"You must be careful, dear," she said. "Just a few hours more now. We mustn't cry, you know."

Betty looked up at her, swift fear in her eyes. "I'm afraid so."

STAGE And SCREEN

ADOLPHE MENJOU EXHIBITS PREFERENCE FOR BOTH IN "BLONDE OR BRUNETTE"

Past and furious stages the "Blonde and Brunette" controversy in Hollywood, home of the most beautiful representatives of both shades.

The debate has been intensified by a statement of Richard Rosson, Paramount director, who recently completed "Blonde or Brunette" with Adolphe Menjou starred, and Greta Nissen and Arlette Marchal in the title roles—that the agitation has resulted in a "twenty-five per cent increase in the number of blondes" and that "many brunettes are sacrificing their beauty by bleaching their hair."

Greta Nissen, Norwegian beauty, a natural blonde and the last word in the allegedly preferred style of pigmentation, has come forward with a statement that she doesn't blame brunettes for wanting to be blondes. Arlette Marchal has countered with a defense of her sisters under the scalp.

The picture "Blonde and Brunette" will be shown at Fischers Appleton Theatre four days starting Monday Feb. 21.

A special stage presentation, "The Three Ward Gals" playing the Banjo and the Ukulele will also be shown in conjunction with the feature picture.

PICTURE REVEALS
"A Woman's Heart" the picture coming to the New Bijou Wednesday and Thursday is an adaptation of the novel by Ruth D'Agostino, "The Revelations of a Woman's Heart."

A young woman has married an elderly man for his money when her heart is given to an unscrupulous philanthropist who preys upon women's virtue. She believes him sincere and asks her husband for a divorce. He is ready to grant her request, as he knew she married him for his money while loving another. A secret visit to the lover's apartment to prove to herself that her young sister, Patsy Allen's estimate of the man as a cad and a rotter untrue, results in the wife's disillusionment. She finds the man in the embrace of another woman. The flapper sister, to show up the man in his true colors, has agreed to visit his apartment. She is saved by the timely arrival of her brother-in-law, followed by the wife and the police. For a time it looks as though a murder charge would be lodged against the husband, but the discovery that a discarded mistress had shot the man and then committed suicide, frees him. The wife learns that it is her husband she has come to love.

The story is kept constantly alive and plausible through Mr. Rosson's expert direction and the excellent acting of an unusually capable cast. Enid Bennett, Gayne Whitman, Edward Earle, Mabel Julienne Scott, Lo's Boyd and Louise Payne have the leading roles. Do not overlook "A Woman's Heart." It is screen entertainment of a worthwhile sort.

GAME BREEDING GAINS AS KANSAS INDUSTRY

Topeka, Kan., (AP)—A new industry has sprung up in Kansas with the virtual disappearance of fur bearing game in most parts of the state. Game breeding less than ten years ago a hobby of the naturalist has assumed commercial proportions.

Within the last two years 105 game breeders' permits have been issued by the fish and game department. Thirty-eight of the permits were for skunk breeding, 14 for raccoon, two for fox and one for mink. Other permits were issued for opossum and muskrat breeding. Thirty-five game bird and water fowl breeders were licensed in the two years.

So Clean Inside, No Fear of Perspiration Offense, However Over-Heated

Once a person realizes the wonderful properties in cascara, no other laxative in the market would ever be considered.

It's no trick to "clean out the bowels." Dozens of things will do that. But a little natural cascara purifies the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as in offensive as so much dew. The old fashioned way was "sals." They get action, but they take the mucous membrane along with the waste matter! Mineral oils are gentler, but they leave the bowels with a film of poisons for the blood to carry off through the pores. But when you cascade the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

If you have the habit of taking medicine for constipation, or even for auto-intoxication, stop it. For a candy cascade as a delightful tonic in which to take cascara; children love them, and the taste tempts most grown-ups to have "more."

And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather. Try a cascaset tonight—see how you feel next day, and for days after. With the skin fresh and fragrant. All druggists, 10c and 25c. adv.

Cornell college's undefeated Midwest conference cage leader had little trouble adding another victory to its 1927 string Monday evening at Mount Vernon, conquering Coach George Christoph's Lawrence college basketball team in a fast and free-scoring game by a score of 41-31. The big Purple quintet held a two to one advantage over the Blues until late in the battle when Harry Hilton, sub center, was inserted into the fray and broke loose for four straight ringers.
Mullenberg, all-Iowa state center, featured the Cornell's powerful offense with seven field goals, six in a second-half rally that consistently penetrated the Lawrence defense. With the exception of Briese, who played a wonderful game of basketball, the Lawrence quint neglected tight defensive work to concentrate on an attack of numerous hard luck shots, which entered the hoop and then rolled off to the side.
Hilton lead the Blue scoring with his four baskets and Briese and Sund added three each. Hedeman collected five points in spite of the air tight guarding of Capt. Johnston of Cornell. Hedeman scored the opening basket on the tipoff but Raymond and Johnston garnered long ringers to put Cornell in a permanent lead. The Iowaans kept the advantage throughout the half as tight defensive work featured by Mullenberg on a charging spree and the giant Leeper, Purple forward, and Raymond his running mate, playing whirlwind games. Cornell clinched the game soon after the second half started.

BOWLING

The first tie match of the year on Appleton alleys occurred Monday evening in the K. C. League at Elk alleys when the Topaz and Bloodstones tied at 552 each. A roll-off was necessary and each man on the two teams rolled one frame. The Bloodstones then won by two pins.

CORNER CAGERS SWAMP KIMBERLY MEN, 41-15

The Valley Queen cage quint of Twelve Corners had an easy time with the Terrible Frenchmen of Kimberly Sunday evening at the Corners. The Frenchmen had only been beaten once before during the year. G. Stingle lead the Corner attack with nine baskets and three free tries for 21 of 41 points. R. Schmidt added six more baskets. For Kimberly Willis dropped four ringers and Pocan added one and three free tries, to lead the scoring. This week the Corners men play a return game with the Citizens Bank team at Appleton. The Banks won at the Corners earlier in the year.

Jack Horner, St. Louis, defeated George Russell, Philadelphia (19.)

Loss Of Eight Gridiron Stars Blow To Alabama

Tuscaloosa, Ala. — Alabama lost eight football stars this past season but is planning to have the Crimson Tide at the top again next fall.

Losing six to eight regulars from a team is no problem to Wallace Wade and his assistants. They lost almost that many from the team that defeated Washington two years ago at Pasadena, but won a third successive title with a flock of sophomores and veterans, and then tied Stanford two months ago.

All of which indicates that the loss of Winslett and Enis at ends, Perry at tackle, Holmes at center and Barnes, Johnson, Rosenfeld and Caldwell in the backfield, while it appears ever so troublesome, is not causing any gray hairs to appear around the foreheads of the Crimson coach.

Wade and his assistants of four years, Cohen and Crisp, are now serving their experience men, reserves, graduated freshmen and what-not through a spring training program that will allow the mentors ample opportunity to find out all they care to know about Alabama's chances for a fourth successive Dixie title next fall.

They have veterans for line and backfield. They have the most promising group of freshmen they have had in years. It is also nice to remember that several sophomores were stars this year, namely Pearce, Hagler, Smith and Taylor.

By using Pickhard at one tackle, Hagler and Bowdoin at guards and Pearce at center, Wade will have a middle sector of the line hard to beat. His veterans in the backfield are the two speed boys, Brown and Taylor and Vines.

His vacant spots will be filled by reserves, although he did not have so many last year, and freshmen. Most of freshmen, freshmen of the big, fast-stepping youngsters for backs. No Alabama supporter is really worried about the Crimson's chances next fall. Not any more worried than they have been in past years. Wade and company have been there long enough for Alabama supporters to have confidence that they will produce a winner.

BENTZ WINNER ON FOUL FROM BAKSIC

Milwaukee Boy Piles Up Nice Lead Over Rival Before Foul in Fifth

Milwaukee — (P)—In his first ten-round encounter Howard Bentz was fouled by Emil Baksic, Chicago mid-cleweight, in the fifth round of their bout at the Auditorium Monday night.

The painful four brought to a premature close the 30-round scheduled fight card which saw but 17 rounds of action. Harry Kahn, Milwaukee lightweight, stopped Jerry (Red) Dolan of Detroit in the second round. The aggressor throughout the match Paul Allen, doughty Chicagoan, carried the newspaper decision in ten rounds in the opening contest, defeating Frankie Munroe, itinerant Los Angeles scrapper.

Bentz and Baksic came into the ring in fine condition for their second meeting. The Milwaukee, pro-legs of Richie Mitchell, took advantage of several openings and had a good margin when the fatal fifth brought the unfortunate punch off Baksic's glove. Referee Walter Houlahan halted the fight after the R. Gee physicians verdict that Bentz could not continue.

UMBERTO FUGAZY RIVALS RICKARD

Italian Promoter Out-Rickards Tex in His Own Favorite Ideas

BY JIMMY POWERS
New York—Thea guy, Umberto, he's a bloater!

Signor Umberto J. Fugazy most assuredly doesn't fool, if you gather the impression I intended to convey in the words of Antonio, his voluble and valuable valet.

The non-bluffing signor is going to be very much in the fight bigline during 1927.

Gene Tunney ran into a panic when the alert-eyed Italian won $500,000 under his esthetic nose. Gene thought the offer was composed largely of well-known hoaxes.

Did that goal Umberto?

Well, there was little untasted spaghetti and ravioli on the gentleman's supper china that night, for announcement was made of a $5,000,000 sports arena to be built in Brooklyn in March.

Who was the owner? Signor Umberto Fugazy.

Who leased the Polo Grounds for outdoor boxing in 1927? Signor Umberto Fugazy.

Who staged the Delaney-Berlenbach, Delaney-Gorman, and Sharkey-Wills bouts? Signor Umberto Fugazy.

Vive l'Italia, if you will, and a bottle of crimson wine, vulgarly and perhaps too familiarly called dago red.

The signor is whooping it up here and there, as the Antonio would have it, and as many dubious others are at last beginning to acknowledge—he means a business that is far removed from the monkey variety.

And now a little "poisonous" stuff on the signor.

He is of medium height, broad shouldered, given over to neatly pressed blue suits, starched white collars and cuffs, and bright colored ties. He has shining, alert eyes that denote keenness of mind and decisiveness of action.

He used to work in his father's bank but ran away and entered the ring under the name of Jack Lee. He managed Freddy Welsh and Jimmy Goodrich into championships. He owns a New York movie house that cost him $500,000 to build. When he heard Tex Rickard had taken over the Garden at a cost of $3,000,000 he said laconically: "Huh, that's very nice—I think I shall build myself instead of a $3,000,000 one a $5,000,000 one."

And that's just what he did and his leasing the Polo Grounds for all outdoor boxing in 1927 made the same Mr. Rickard nothing if not sick at the tummy.

OSHKOSH PINMEN ROLL HIGH IN STATE MEET

Racine—(P)—Piankington hotels of Milwaukee former central states champions, featured the bombardment in the team event of the state bowling tourney here Monday with a count of 2,984 which puts them in sixth place. A Racine duo, Cud Bertermann and H. Butt, gained high honors of the day in the doubles event when they toppled the maples for a count of 1270 to land in third place in this event. Bertermann got only 599 but his partner had a brilliant series of 571 on 245, 290 and 225. L. Buckley, C. Morgan, Milwaukee, and A. Steves-E. Rehbein, Oshkosh, divided second honors in the singles event with counts of 1228. Buckley donated 676 to his doubles mark while Rehbein crowded 657 off the drives.

The Hotels gathered games of 965, 1023 and 949. Doc Ehike did the best for his team with 609 and Max Zoschke, contributed 604.

WONDERS WIN FIRST VOLLEYBALL BATTLES

Kimberly—Rayfield's Wonders took a turn at winning and downed the second place Clubhouse Boosters in three straight games Monday evening in the Kimberly Monday evening Volleyball loop. Clyde Invinibles took three games from Ritten's Bouncers in the second match of the evening. Clyde's Invinibles are secure in top position the Boosters dropped into a second place tie with the Wonders and the Bouncers hold cellar position.

FIDEL LABARBA GETS BEATING FROM NOVICE

Boston—(P)—Fidel LaBarba, fly-weight champion of the world, was recovering Tuesday from one of the worst beatings of his career and local boxing followers were trying to explain the latest sensation of the ring. Johnny Vacca, of Brighton who Monday night ripped his way to a ten-round victory over the titleholder.

If LaBarba title had been at stake there might have been a new wearer but the men were fighting at catchweights. Vacca sealed the beam at 115½ and LaBarba tipped it at 117.

A confident champion who never before had been knocked off his feet played with the local boy through the first round but before the second had gone more than 20 seconds he took a left hook to the jaw that resounded through the house and felled LaBarba for the count of nine. He staggered to his feet and was downed by a right hand smash that kept him on the canvas for a count of five and hardly had recovered his equilibrium when another left hook returned him to the resin for nine. Only the champion's ring generalship saved him time and again as the local boy rocked him with terrific punches.

The fourth round saw the champion on the floor again for the count of nine but in the fifth he started a comeback that allowed him to carry a shade in that and the next two rounds. The ninth went to Vacca but the last saw both striving desperately for a haymaker.

Vacca's showing was all the more remarkable because he was without hope of financial compensation. When a heavy snow storm made a good box office impossible he volunteered to go through for nothing and his offer was accepted.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

MICHIGAN, PURDUE IN BATTLE FOR LOOP TOP

Chicago—(P)—Michigan sent its conference-leading basketball team to LaFayette, Ind., Tuesday for a game that will decide just how firm is the Wolverine grip on the top rung of the standings. Should Michigan lose to Purdue Tuesday night, it would mean a Purdue-Michigan-Wisconsin tie for Big Ten leadership.

Michigan has won five games with no losses, while Purdue has four victories and one defeat. Wisconsin, which has no game until Saturday, has won five games and lost one.

Wisconsin and Michigan do not meet in basketball this year. The Wolverines, however, have among others one more game with Purdue after Tuesday night and a game with Indiana, which is fourth in the conference percentage table. The game at LaFayette is the only one scheduled Tuesday night but Northwestern and Illinois play Wednesday while Saturday will see eight conference teams in action.

HARTJES PINMEN WIN FROM SMITH SPECIALS

S. M. Hartjes Specials of Little Chute took two games of a match with the Jule Smith Specials of Appleton last week on the Chute alleys, winning the match by 21 pins. The Chute men took the first game by 63 maples and lost the second by 89 to trail the Appleton team by 27. In the final game the Chute squad took a 48-pin victory to take the match by 21.

J. Ricker of the Appleton five had high series of the match with a 565 and G. Durdell of Appleton and D. Hartjes of Little Chute tied for high game of 212. High series for Little Chute went to D. Hartjes with 546. Another 200 score was rolled by Ricker with a 209.

TRISH CAPTAIN MIDGET

The smallest man on Knute Rockne's football team will captain the Micks on the gridiron next fall. He is John Smith, of Hartford, Conn., and he has played guard for the Irishmen of South Bend for the past two seasons.

Baltimore—Vince Dundee, Baltimore, defeated Paul Demsky, Australia (12).

Philadelphia—Bobby Garcia, Baltimore, knocked out Tommy Hernian, Philadelphia (10).

VICTORY BRINGS WOE

George Young, the Canadian conqueror of the Catalina Channel, is having much more difficulty managing his promotional affairs now than he did when he started across on his swim for William Wingle's $25,000. The mess is so great that reports exist that the youthful swimmer is getting well disgusted with himself, his schemes and everything.

POOR MATERIAL MAY HANDICAP NEW BOSS

Philadelphia—National League players are of the opinion that "Stuffy" McInnis has the makings of a big league manager. However, none of them believe he has anything on hand but bush league material in his Philies.

McInnis is even dispositioned, well liked as a player, and has been well trained for his present job. Working under Connie Mack and Tris Speaker, he has had the advantage of learning the methods of two wise men of baseball.

With two exceptions, Minneapolis and St. Paul bowlers monopolize the alleys all day and night, in the singles, doubles and five men events. These two squads are from Faribault, Minn., and Ellsworth, Wis.

The last big change made in the standings by the out of towners was recorded by R. Spear and R. Simmons, of Des Moines, Ia., who landed on top in the doubles with a 1,235.

Several Twin Cities teams got into the select class in the five men list late Monday night, notably the Uptown Sanitary Shop, St. Paul, whose members collected 2,899 maples for second place.

The standings to date include:
Five Men Event
Boyd Alleys, Eau Claire, 2,818, eighth place.
Tenth Place R. Boyd and N. Brunner, Eau Claire, 1,171.

HUGGINS RATES COMBS STAR DESPITE FAULT

New York—Despite a poor throwing arm, Manager Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees regards Earl Combs as one of the most valuable outfielders in the American League.

While Huggins wanted Tris Speaker, he refused to give him the preference over Combs as a regular. He realizes Combs has a much longer career ahead than Speaker.

Fear alone, that sending Combs to the bench for Speaker might destroy the confidence of the promising Kentuckian, caused him to finally pass up Speaker.

GEORGE M'ELROY FARM FAMOUS FOR CATTLE AND GOOD POULTRY

Home, Stables and Hen-house Are Among Best Equipped in Vicinity

Special to Post-Crescent
New London — That all modern farms do not face the main highways was proven recently in a visit to the Midway Stock farm owned by Mr. and Mrs. George M'Elroy, situated on the road running parallel to highway 26. The farm is located about four miles from this city. Mr. M'Elroy specializes in the raising of Brown Swiss purebred cattle while his wife is at the present keenly interested in the installation of a new incubator of 1,000 egg capacity, with which to increase her flock of purebred Plymouth Rock poultry.

The feeding and caring for the herd of more than thirty five cattle and calves constitutes constant labor. The stables must be kept immaculate, and the cattle are fed three times daily. Their diet is composed of ingredients planned for milk production. Diet is as carefully watched here as in the hospital kitchen.

WIN MANY PRIZES
The herd has many prize winners having been represented at both Outagamie and Waupaca county fairs. Mr. M'Elroy has won many prizes in his blue-blooded Brown Swiss. Mr. M'Elroy states that he is not at all that the blue ribbon type.

The poultry houses constitute one of the most interesting phases of the farm. These long low structures face the south, giving an all day allowance of sunlight. The birds are beautifully marked and their loud, constant singing denotes that the mark aimed at by every poultry raiser has been arrived at for a productive flock. It is a singing, busy flock. The gathering of eggs at the Midway farm is a pleasure, large, clean brown eggs lying three and four in the clean straw lined boxes, or peeping from beneath the wings of the gentle fowls. Each day's count is between 120 and 125. Just now these are being accumulated for incubation. They are graded for size and regularity, those having good shapes saved for hatching while the remaining ones are sold at regular market prices. When the desired number for the huge incubator have been collected there is always a ready market for surplus hatching eggs in the neighboring cities when using a fancy price.

The farm is one of the best equipped in the country. It has its own heating and lighting plant, the house being equipped with electric lights and hot and cold water. Hearts, Tarts And Darts-- Lincoln And Valentines!

New London — St. Valentine, who knew nothing of the tradition of ribboned, lace-papered and rose-budded epistles which cry aloud "Let's trade hearts, my Valentine! Mine for yours, and yours for mine!" Who knew nothing of that worthy queen of hearts who made the tarts so many generations ago, would have been slightly surprised at the celebration covered the day once set aside for feasts and sacrifices, could he have happened in on the party given in his honor by the members of the fourth grade, Lincoln school on Monday.

A combined program, the first part showing honor to the memory of President Lincoln, whose birthday was Saturday, was enjoyed by the children under the direction of Miss Ellen Martin, grade teacher. Then when all ceremony and seriousness were well over the children brought in the valentines and refreshments which were all that the name implies. Sandwiches, generous in size and number, were quickly followed by decorated cookies, fruit and tarts. Rash attempts on the parts of the young gentlemen present to eat more than their share were quickly squelched by the girls.

"Gee," exclaimed the little boy who had furnished sandwiches, "my mother just about used up a whole jar of peanut butter making these. She didn't care much, though. She bought it when it was cheap, so it didn't cost much."

PLAN COMMISSION DEFERS ACTION IN 2 ZONE PETITIONS

Want to Make Further Investigation Before Changing City Plan

No definite action was taken on two petitions before the city plan commission at a special meeting at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the city hall. The first petition sought to have the corner of E. Madison and S. Mason streets placed in a light manufacturing and commercial district, and the second asked the plan commission to consider placing a section of Wisconsin-ave in a local business district.

R. M. Connelly, Charles Boyd and F. S. Bradford were not at the meeting. Members of the commission decided that action should not be hasty and a thorough investigation should be made before a recommendation concerning Wisconsin-ave is made.

C. D. Thompson pointed out that any business district which might be established should be laid out with the idea of serving homes in the north of Wisconsin-ave. He said that people south of that street were close enough to College-ave but that establishment of a local business district would be a great convenience to those people living north of Wisconsin-ave.

The commission was asked to consider a local business district on Wisconsin-ave by the Aldermen from the Sixth ward who desire to have the Greenspoon junk yard cleaned up. It was said. A petition placing his property which is at the corner of W. Wisconsin-ave and N. Alvin-st, in a local business district was refused by the common council at the last meeting.

Immediately a resolution was adopted petitioning the Aldermen from the Sixth ward to place a large part of Wisconsin-ave in a local business district. Mr. Thompson suggested that no action be taken on the S. Mason and E. Madison-st petition unless the commission recommended that lots 9 and 10, which includes all the land along the railroad tracks from S. Mason-st to E. Madison-st, be placed in a manufacturing district. He said it would not be fair to place only half of the land in a district.

Mayor A. C. Rule pointed out that the property as it now stands could not be used for homes because of its high elevation above the street level.

It was brought out that a similar petition had been refused several years ago because of the proposed street from S. Cherry-st and W. College-ave to Appleton Junction. The commission decided to postpone action on this matter until made and thorough investigation could be made and adjacent property owners could be interviewed.

Valley Shrine No. 10, White Shrine of Jerusalem, celebrated its seventh anniversary of organization Monday evening in Masonic temple with a birthday dinner at 6:30 followed by a short program and ceremonial. Covers were laid for about 60 at the dinner. Kaukauna members of the shrine served the supper. Mrs. Anna Klahn was chairman of the committee in charge.

Mrs. J. B. Delbridge told briefly the history of the club and gave a resume of its activities. After the dinner, a ceremonial was held at which time five new members were taken in. Mrs. F. H. He played several selections on the organ and two songs were sung by Mrs. Marie Boehmer.

PUPILS OF JEBE SCHOOL PLAY IN PLEASING RECITAL

Students of the Jebe school of music appeared before a capacity audience at a recital given at the school Sunday afternoon. More than 150 persons heard the program.

A trio number, "Opus 200" by Gur-litt, especially pleased. Ronald Snelling played the violin, Miss Evelyn Walsh, the cello, and Mr. F. W. Walsh, the piano. Miss Annette Post sang Bishop's "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark" with a clear high soprano that showed coloratura possibilities. Another vocal number which raised the praise of the audience was "My Lover Comes from the Sea" by Colough-Leigher, sung by Mrs. Frank Schneider of Neenah. She was accompanied by Mrs. James Fritzen, also of Neenah. Owen Sensenbrenner of Menasha, substituted for Miss Jessie Loomans, who was ill. His violin selection, "Gavotte" by Mozart, was ably played.

Others who appeared on the program were Miss Evelyn Bergman, Miss Sprinckles, Miss Wynn, Miss Walsh, Ronald Snelling, Miss Bernice Werschem, and Clarence Eggert. Pupils in the recital have studied in the studios of Mrs. Ruth Jebe, piano; Mrs. Marie Boehm, voice; Edwin G. Kappelmann, theory and singing; F. H. Jebe, violin; Miss Marie Strasse, cello.

SPEND AN HOUR A DAY WITH YOUR SON, FATHERS ARE URGED

Rohan Tells Luncheon Club Members to Find Time to "Pal" With Boys

"Give your sons at least an hour of your time daily and two hours on Sunday to do with just as they desire," was the plea to members of the Y's Mens club at the father and son meeting Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. by Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools. Mr. Rohan addressed a group of 24 fathers and sons. The program opened with a dinner and Mr. Rohan entertained with harmonica selections before his talk.

The youth in his teens is in the "know-it-all" stage when he is wiser than his father and loves to criticize him, but that is the time for the father to have patience. Mr. Rohan said. If he goes through this period patiently with his son, the boy appreciates it when he passes through the stage and is ready to form a wonderful companionship with his dad. Too many interests outside the home, which keep the father away from his boy, especially evenings, tend to drive them further apart and make the "home" merely a shelter, not a place to mold a family.

"Do not touch" signs on the furniture, rugs and other home furnishings, also tend to make the home merely a building, Mr. Rohan said. Allowing the boy the freedom of the home, though a rug may wear out quicker or some of the furniture may be scuffed and scratched, builds a man of character at the expense of a few pieces of furniture.

Mr. Rohan commended the youth of today, saying that the boys and girls must be better than those of the past, because they are good in the face of worse temptations. The present day has more and worse temptations than the youth of the past. To the youth of today he urged the standard it maintains today illustrates that it is better and not worse than former generations.

MINISTER MAKES MOVIE TO HELP SPREAD GOSPEL

Carnavilla, Iowa. (P)—The Rev. K. W. Braun, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church here, has turned movie producer to gain the same end he seeks from the pulpit—spreading the gospel.

He produced and directed a film of the life of Jesus, "The Life of Jesus," which he started on an exhibition tour of the country and now awaits the verdict of the public in his effort of popularizing religion through motion pictures.

Picturesque Clayton-co. was the setting for the film, which was made in four parts. The first portrayed Christ's meeting with the disciples at Emmaus. The others are arranged about the themes "Hallowed Be Thy Name," "Thy Kingdom Come," and "Thy Will Be Done."

A film corporation cooperated in making the picture. Rev. Irving Hauer, president of Beloit College, and Dr. A. L. Meyer of Johns Hopkins University, assisted in the production. Feb. 26.

DEMAND RECOUNT OF VOTES CAST IN BOY MAYOR RACE

Only Six Votes Separate Candidates and Announcements Are Withheld

With Chester Davis and William Lee, candidates for boy mayor of Appleton at the election Monday in the four local high schools, vigorously demanding a recount of the 1421 votes cast, announcement of the winners will not be made until Friday evening when the new officers are inaugurated at Lawrence Memorial chapel. When the votes for mayor were canvassed late Monday night, it was found that one of the candidates led the other by only six votes, while 33 other votes were scattered among the two boys defeated in the primary. Abram Cohen and Robert Shepherd. Of the remaining 1408 ballots one boy received 707 and the other 701. When informed of the results both candidates immediately demanded recounts and this will be made Wednesday. Because of this recount no results for any office will be announced until the boys are called to be inaugurated Friday.

1,400 VOTES CAST

The four high schools have a voting population of 1,340 and over 1,400 votes were cast for each office. The largest total was cast for treasurer when 1,447 were placed in the ballot boxes. The mayor was next with 1,421. The boys will be inaugurated at a massmeeting open to boys and men of Appleton at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the chapel. Judge Henry Graess, Green Bay, will give the principal address of the evening and music will be furnished by the high school band.

Mayor A. C. Rule will turn over his seal to the boy and other city officers will turn over their insignia of office to their youthful successors.

J. L. Johns will act as master of ceremonies at the massmeeting. Fathers and sons of Appleton are urged to attend it together. The officers will take charge of the city after the meeting and the in charge of the city after the meeting. The program will run until Saturday evening. Police and fire chiefs will be present at the meeting and after the program will take charge of the boy police and firemen and assign them to active duty. The "policemen" will go with the regular members of the force on their usual beats and the firemen will spend a day at the fire station learning about the apparatus and its care and other fire fighting details. They will sleep at the station Friday night. Boy officers will be advised in their work by the regular officers and a council meeting of the new aldermen probably will be held Saturday. Men who have no sons will "adopt" boys for the massmeeting and boys who have no fathers also are to invite men to act in that capacity Friday evening.

ESKIMOS WORK OUT OWN THEORY OF EVOLUTION

Washington. (P)—Dr. Knud Rasmussen, the Danish explorer, who recently completed a 200,000 mile dog-sled trip through the Arctic zone believes the Eskimo has evolved something akin to a Darwinian philosophy of his own, based on the theory that there was a time when all men were converted into men and when there was only one tribe of men but numerous animals.

Eskimo folklore, Dr. Rasmussen said recently before the National Geographic Society, also assumes that there was a period in the earliest dawn of Arctic evolution when all human beings were males. To the Eskimo mind it suggested a peaceful but monotonous and humdrum existence and it terminated when Mrs. Eskimo was evolved from the rib of one of the early lords of Arctic creation.

PREPARE FOR CAMPAIGN

Work on prospect cards for the 1927 financial campaign of Appleton Boy Scout council kept members of the executive committee of the drive busy Monday afternoon at a meeting at scout headquarters. The drive opens on Feb. 20 and continues until Feb. 26.

POLICE, SHERIFF RAID HOUSEBOAT ALONG FOX RIVER

Kimberly Home Also Visited by Officers—50-gallon Still Confiscated

Arrest of a man for assault and battery Monday morning was directly responsible for two liquor raids in the department. Alleged intoxicating liquor was found in both raids, and one 50-gallon still was confiscated.

A houseboat on the shore of the Fox river, below the foot of E. Eldorado-st, occupied by Joseph Sherburne, was the scene of the first raid, police officers swooping down on the premises about 2:30 Monday afternoon. The sheriff's department repeated the raid about 5 o'clock in the afternoon at Kimberly. John Van Alphen being the victim this time.

The raids resulted from the arrest of Orlando Suerburne, 1016 E. Wisconsin-ave Monday morning for 52 assault and battery. His father, Joseph Sherburne, was the complainant. The son's arrest followed an altercation between himself and his father at the latter's home last Saturday. The altercation ended in a fist fight, police reported, the father carrying away a damaged eye as a remembrance of the encounter. Monday morning he swore out a peace warrant against his son for assault and battery, and the son was arrested shortly after.

Arraigned in municipal court Monday afternoon the son pleaded not guilty, and his case was set for March 4. Bond was fixed at $100, which he furnished.

The raid on the Joseph Sherburne premises was made by Police Chief George T. Prim, Sgt. M. J. McGinnis, and Officer Carl Radtke. A two-gallon jug containing alleged intoxicating liquor was taken by them. Sherburne was alone in the place at the time.

Sheriff Otto H. Zuehlke, and Deputy Sheriffs William R. Kreiss and Gustave Whiteford, visited the Van Alphen home at Kimberly. Van Alphen, who is employed in a factory there, was not at home, but his wife met the officers at the door.

They found 20 gallons of alleged moonshine, 150 gallons of alleged mash, and a 50 gallon still in the basement. The still and part of the alleged liquor was confiscated by the officers.

BANKS HOLD FORTUNE IN UNCLAIMED FUNDS

Pennies of "Floaters" Swell Total; Amount in One Bank Reaches Six Figures

New York. (P)—A neat fortune in unclaimed savings banks in the vaults of New York banks awaiting traces of depositors.

The pennies of "floaters" the world over, from diverging sources and in varying amounts, add to the total which, in one bank alone, has climbed to six figures.

Hundreds of depositors have visited banks never to return. They have left their savings and gone possibly to death, without leaving record of their moves.

HEIRS HARD TO FIND

Owners and heirs to this fortune are hard to find says Herbert K. Twitchell, president of the Seaman's Bank for Savings, which, in 100 years of business, has 2,536 dormant accounts totaling $296,933.67. The task, however, is a never-ending one and through a department, instituted for the purpose constant search is made and every possibility of a claimant exhausted.

The Seaman's bank is one of many accounts whose depositors have not been heard of in 20 years or more. After this lapse the accounts become "legally dormant," interest no longer is paid and the banks have use of the money, but not for individual gain.

Markets UPWARD MOVEMENT RESUMED ON MARKET

Twenty Leading Rails and Equal Number of Industrials Highest Since 1910

New York. (P)—With the average of 20 leading rails at the highest level since 1910 and the average of 20 leading industrials in a new high ground for the year, the upward movement of prices was resumed at the opening of Tuesday's market. Initial gains of a point or so were recorded by Baldwin, Western Maryland Common and R. Hoe, while General Motors, American International Telephone and many others showed substantial fractional gains.

Buying orders were spread over a broad list, but the industrials continued to receive the bulk of speculative attention. Activity in the rails centered largely in the Western Maryland issue, the common quickly moving up nearly 3 points and then 4 points in the afternoon.

Unusually large offerings of U. S. Steel Common appeared around noon, but the record breaking consumption of this year, American Tobacco was one of the few weak spots. Foreign exchange opened irregularly, demand sterling holding steady around $4.54 1/2, while French francs eased slightly to 2 1/2.

High figures for the year were touched by a number of oil shares. E. I. du Pont crossed the 100 mark, buying movement, which lifted most of the group a point or more. A block of 10,000 shares of Pure Oil changed hands, and Houston Oil got up 4 points. Considerable activity occurred in United States Rubber, which crossed 60. Wheeling and Lake Erie got down to a new low for the current decline when it reached 50. The ruling rate for call loans was retained at 4 percent.

The closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 2,000,000 shares.

Light of the elevated, wander ageless Chinese, men of bearded styles, hatless foreign women, port, old-faced children. Such is the clientele of the Bowery Savings bank where the dormant accounts total $100,000.

Once in this parade, said a bank official, was Mary Ellen, a quaint old charwoman, 70 years old. She had forgotten some of her accounts and was found to have $12,000 deposited with the bank under four different names.

BILL WOULD GIVE STATE RIGHT TO ASK JURY TRIAL

Amendment to Municipal Court Law Is Proposed by Assemblyman Miller

If a bill amending section 48 of chapter 23 of the laws of 1907, relating to the municipal court of Outagamie county, introduced in the state assembly last week by Assemblyman A. M. Miller of Kaukauna, is adopted by the legislature, the district attorney in that county, as well as the defendant, shall have the right to demand a trial by a jury from the county at large, unless the defendant waives trial by jury.

Under present provisions of the law, only the defendant can ask for a jury drawn from the county at large, a criminal action. If he does not make this request, the jury is drawn from the Appleton jury list.

Section 48 reads in part as follows: "If the defendant in any criminal action in the municipal court except prosecutions for violations of section 457c of the statutes, at or before the time of pleading to the information and in any hearing proceeding within 10 days after filing of the return shall serve and file a written demand for a trial by jury from the county at large, the case shall be so tried, except as herein otherwise provided."

The proposed amendment, which was prepared by Stanley A. Staudt, assistant district attorney, reads:

"In case the defendant does not waive trial by jury, either he, the said defendant, or the district attorney in behalf of the state in an criminal action in the municipal court, except prosecutions for violations of section 457c of the statutes, at or before the time of pleading to the information, and in any hearing proceeding within 10 days after filing of the return, shall serve and file a written demand for a trial by jury from the county at large, the case shall be so tried, except as herein otherwise provided."

That part of the law giving both parties the right to demand a trial by jury from the county at large in a civil action is not changed.

It reads:

"If either party in any civil action commenced originally in the municipal court sitting as a court of record and which is triable by a jury, within 10 days after joining issue shall serve and file a written demand for a trial by jury from the county at large it shall be so tried except as herein otherwise provided."

Mrs. Joseph A. Kov, 844 E. Atlantic street, who had an operation at St. Elizabeth hospital Saturday, was in a favorable condition Monday, it was reported.

SECTION FOREMAN GOES ON RAMPAGE

Hilbert Man Is Sentenced to County Jail for Drunk, Disorderly Conduct

A rampage started by Fred Pfeiffer, section foreman with the Soo line, at Hilbert Sunday evening, ended with his commitment in the county jail at Chilton, at about midnight. He was arraigned in justice court at Chilton Monday morning, pleaded guilty to drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and was given the alternative of a $25 fine or a 20-day sentence in jail. He didn't have the money, so he had to take the jail sentence.

Pfeiffer entered the Sanitary Baker Shop at 9:20 and asked E. E. McGowell, the proprietor, for a drink of water. After he was given the water, he sat down and refused to leave. Mr. and Mrs. McGowell and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Luckow were playing cards in the next room.

When it became apparent that Pfeiffer might remain indefinitely, Mr. Luckow went into the store and helped Pfeiffer out the door. He returned a few minutes later, and Mr. Luckow again pushed him outside. In doing so, the unwelcome guest shoved his hand through a window, badly cutting his wrist.

He then went to the Opera House, operated by Fred Boeslager, and offered to "kick anyone in the place," according to Jack Thomas, village marshal, who was called to the Opera House to quell Pfeiffer. The latter was handcuffed and taken to the village jail, but he broke out within a few minutes and began another excursion through the village, authorities reported. He was caught again after having called at the Matt Fuchs home, near the jail, and was then taken to the county jail at Chilton by Marshal Thomas, Mr. Fuchs and Charles Goldbeck.

DIRECTORS STUDY PAPER EDUCATION

System Is in Embryonic Stage, but Future Holds Wide Possibilities

Pulp and paper education in vocational school systems was discussed at a conference of local school directors and representatives from the industrial boards of education from paper mill cities in this section of Wisconsin at Hotel Northern last week. The proposition was presented by E. E. Gunn, Jr., assistant state director of vocational education, who outlined the history and development of this phase of education in the state and told what can be done by developing the day school, the adult evening school and the industrial training program.

This education is in an embryonic stage in Wisconsin today, the speaker brought out, but its possibilities for the future are wide. No definite action could be taken by the local directors but they were interested in the proposition. They will co-operate with the state by investigating the possibilities in their cities for pulp and paper education and try to pave the way for a complete survey to prepare for the work suggested by the state department. A more intensive program would be carried out than has been done in the past in any of the cities.

Places represented at the conference were: Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, Green Bay, Marinette, Wisconsin Rapids, Stevens Point and Rhinelander. N. C. Thayer, supervisor

Farmer Had Given Up All Hope When He Started On Dreco

Hortonville citizen had tried almost every medicine made without getting any better.

Just because ordinary medicines have failed to help you do not give up hope. Dreco is different from anything you have ever tried and the chances are ten to one that it will quickly bring relief if your ailments are caused by a disordered stomach, a sluggish liver, deranged kidneys or constipated bowels. Just call on the Dreco man at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store and he will tell honestly whether or not he thinks Dreco will help you.

Mr. Frank Doughty, a well-known farmer living at Hortonville, Wis. R. R. No. 3, says:

"For a number of years I have been troubled with a very weak and badly disordered stomach. No matter how careful I was in selecting my food I was sure to suffer from acute indigestion and be actually doubled up with cramps afterwards. As soon as food reached my stomach, it soured and formed acids which came up in my throat burning like fire and gas bloated me out and sent sharp, shooting pains all thru my system. Naturally I lost all appetite for foods and hadn't enjoyed a meal for years."

"I tried everything in an effort to get relief but when nothing helped me I lost all hope and just drifted along getting worse all the time."

"One day I read how a friend of mine had gotten relief by taking Dreco so I started on it too and this wonderful medicine went right to the root of my troubles and just gave me a complete new stomach. I now enjoy three square meals everyday and am never troubled the least bit with my stomach afterwards."

Mr. H. W. C. Marr Baker, the well-known Expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Schlitz Bros. Downtown Drug Store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him. adv.
